London March 20- 1870

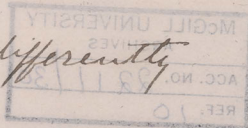

Dear Papa,

Many thanks for your last letter, & the copy of the "New Dominion" which you sent, containing your article on the college.

The laboratory fee for last quarter falling due, I had yesterday to go into the city, to the bank for the money, & by way of saving another journey, I drew at the same time £20 for Mrs Gust. to pay her to the end of this quarter. I now have left at the bank £42. I am afraid I am awfully expensive, but I hope I will be able in some way to get worth for the money.

I am now, at the laboratory, working at a few "insoluble cyanides" which

All analyzed somewhat differently from ordinary mixtures. March 23.

If you telegraph when you arrive at Liverpool, when you are to arrive here and at what station I should like to meet you there if possible.

I suppose as this will be the last opportunity I have of writing before you leave I ought to remember lots of things to say & to remind you of. But I really do not think of anything.

Tomorrow will be our last Chemistry lecture & will see there will be more time & opportunity for getting on with Laboratory work afterwards when they are out of the road.

With best love to yourself & all at home.

Believe me your ever affectionate son
George.
