Dearest William

Since writing this morning I have received a second letter from you. I by this evening's boat our letter from home. Part of which I hasten to enclose to you in the hope they may reach you before you finally sail. You will be delighted to find that William comes off second at the High School. It is higher than I expected & perhaps gives rise to even stranger reports that he did not mount one higher. We have had a most lovely day. Called upon Mr Share & Miss Lee & Mrs. Hugh Lee in the forenoon. I sat on the rocks at ^{our} Steps marking that of the afternoon Such quiet work is not prolific of either thoughts or incidents & now that you are gone if I do not take to writing, I shall grow rusty in thought, word & action. George continues to express pleasure in this locality & has found some fine fossils.

Do not tarry at Montreal but hasten to our loved ones at Manay Bay. & remember Anna's intrests are the most pressing - supposing all continue to be blessed with good health. I have a letter partly written to Mrs. Carnish but hurry to get this mailed. A letter from Kella which I have not time to read. I also enclose. I am doubtful how to address this I hope I hit upon the most likely one to reach you before sailing. May the Lord bless you with a safe & comfortable voyage. I always think of you as your most affectionate wife.
