Dear Father,

Many thanks for the letter enclosed from Toronto. I am considering the matter, but think in the circumstances I can only refuse. This present Arbitration is now practically begun over again on a new basis and I do not know what may come of it, as regards time. Thanks also for the papers you have sent. They are very welcome out here.

You ask Florence's address. It is now: -
9 Appach Road, Brixton Hill, London, S.W.
As it is quite near where they lived formerly I did not think it necessary to telegraph.

I have come up along the line this far (75 miles) to day to pay the men in the various parties; & return by night train. I heard at Lytton that George had started out from there this morning! I have not seen him yet.

Yours affectionate son,

William.

Here is a column in the last "Christian" quoted from your new book.
