

In the Report number of the same Journal A. Wilmet writes to say that he has found & published exactly same conclusions with Dr. Schlichter. But, he says, there were certainly two Opfers, one in S.E. Africa, the other on Malabar Coast of India.

In the same way he says there were two Tarshistes in the Northern Hemisphere.

The name Opfer, he says,
signifies merely a rich Country.

DEPUTY HEAD AND DIRECTOR,

MUSEUM AND OFFICES, SUSSEX STREET,

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 1899

My dear Father,

I am sending with this the April Number of the Journal of the Geog. Soc., Containing article on Opheis etc p. 376 & particularly see p. 385.

This I think will give required information. The author mentions Bent - I think the first scientific explorer. Peters (I think) later work was I believe from what I can recollect confined to was special identification of sets & way etc be important.

In a later number of the Journal another communication, of which I send you abstract Enclosed, appears.

Yours

George

P.S. Please return the Journal when done with. It belongs to our library.
