

at-present working at Loughs. Dr Bowerbank is still going on, but is old & works very slowly, principally copying himself & British species.
Etheridge seemed to think you should write to him & get back your specimens if he cannot undertake to describe them, & tell him that you are desirous of having them done at once, & will therefore transfer them to someone else.

Bowerbanks address is East-ascut

St Leonards on Sea

Please excuse this hastily written proscript, Do not put-put-yourself to any trouble about the two net specimens as it is quite problematical whether I will do anything with them.

The notes I have what I meant was the rough sketches taken on the spot. But-as I have said.
Please do not trouble about them.

I was comparing the acanthometra with the figures in Heckel's great-work, but-there seem to be so many kinds that it almost impossible to identify it. Especially as the descriptions are in German.

Please give best love to Anna

Believe me

Your affectionate son
