Dear Mamma,

I have not had a letter, except one from Anna by the last two boats but hope to have better luck tonight, though I quite understand how hard it is to do anything in such weather as you are having, if it is still hot it would be a great deal better to go away somewhere than to stay at home and get sick.

I was down at L'islet this morning and got a few things for my aquarium there was a very low tide.

The hon colonel Monck & family is here at present he is a brother of Lord Monck.
And Miss Monck who is deaf.

Mrs McIllice asked me to go over to her house to tea tonight.

Mrs Peter Redpath came here last night, I have not seen her today yet, & do not know how long she intends to stay.

There are well so many babies now, and some of them cry all night.

Old Mr Hovington asked me for any old pamphlets or anything of that kind which I had read; for winter reading. I promised to try and get him some, but have none here which I can leave, would you ask Anna or some one to try and hunt up some, perhaps there are a few in the bottom of my bookshelves, and send them down anytime before I leave.

You will I am afraid think me very troublesome and always wanting something, but please

excuse,

I have no more news to tell, and I am getting sleepier & sleepier so please excuse my cutting off my letter here

please give my love to all at home and believe me your ever affectionate
George
