Primrose Hill
July 14th 1875

My dear Margaret
Your very kind and some letter of 14th Aug was duly received and was delighted when I read the contents, the hope of seeing you once more was very cheering, and I have no doubt that Anna will fully discharge all the duties

Resolving upon her in your absence with great credit to herself and great satisfaction to you, no doubt you will have many serious thoughts about it, but you could never have a better opportunity for visiting your friends than now offers itself; I was not aware when I last wrote, that Mr Dawson intended to pay another to this country, but I think all things have come together for the extended visit, I trust we will be all spared till then, and that we will be mutually hospited by each others company.

I was exceedingly glad to hear George was keeping so well and was so comfortably settled in London.
There is no doubt that when Mr. Dawson comes he will receive a great deal of attention from his friends who supported him during the election and have no doubt that he will add many more to the list (when here, of course you will attend the Queen's Levee, and who knows but Mr J

may receive the honor of Knighthood.

We have had rather a severe winter, not a great of snow but a good deal of frost, which still continues, consequently there have been a good many complaining of colds.

was in Edinburgh yesterday Mrs D. & Jessie have been sail up, but are both able to be in the Gaslar, I suppose (we in this country) suffer more from colds with our changeable climate than you do with all your frost and snow, I trust you will get nice weather this time while here.

There is nothing of much importance going on here, Marion going on with her lessons, Alfred still in Dun dee, Fredric going out and in every day to Little.

We hear regularly from Charles, he likes Demerara very much, and has kept his health well.

Called for Miss Boyd Cohen in Colin yesterday she is a most wonderful person.

Marion sends her warmest love to Anna.

Kind regards to Mr Dawson & trust you will have a very pleasant passage

Ever dear Margaret
Your Loving & affectionate sister Marion
