

for my new clothes, & hope you will approve of it.

London. April 27.

1871.

Acc. 376

With best love to yourself & all. your affectionate son

George

Dear Mamma

I have hardly time to do more than thank you for your last letter, as I have been writing already to Papa & have taken up a great part of the morning. I don't think I told you that I dined at Dr Parkers a little while ago. It was not a party but just two or three of Parkers friends from the School of Mines &c.
The next morning I had arranged to go down by ten o'clock, & Parker & myself ~~had~~ ^{spent} a very interesting & instructive morning in dissecting the eye of an ox.

Last Sunday Phillips Fatter was up in Town & asked me to dine with him at the Tavistock Hotel. He seems to be a very pleasant person.
He was up in town on some business connected with his Candidature for ^{the} fellowship of the Royal Society. I have a very kind invitation from him & Phillips to go to see them in Liverpool. I enclose a little bit of the Fatter which I chose