My dear Mrs Danson

I feel quite ashamed to fall back into the old mistake, & liberty, of writing to you because I forget Anna's number; - but I know your goodness is not of the lips, but the heart; & that you will pardon the want of regularity & business knowledge on my part. - I try to be more business-like among Gauchers! - Mrs Lawrence (the dear lady I am staying with) is making me crimp my front-hair, because she says I ought to live in the 19th century, instead of the 14th, 15th & 16th! — She reminds me of M^{rs}. Judge Foster, in her kindness, but has ever so much more knowledge of the world, and rightness!

— She has been left a large fortune (half a million) but through some informality, did not come into possession of it. — ^{though she has plenty to live on.} Please give my best love & condescence to my darling Miss Linn, — I will write her in a day or two, with warmest love,
Yours
Ann R. S. Hunt
