Dearest mother -

Mail days

I have become careless of & trust to any day being within hail of some mail - U.S. or otherwise - Fortunately the writing necessity will not now continue long, or I might degenerate into very far apart communications - Directly the warm weather announces the whole outer world to the within limits - I find my time fritters itself away - I go in & out, pick flowers and rhubarb - & rush out to deliver a child from some precarious tree or fence, & give heed to their demands for benches - far out - clads make them wordraces hungry when in town - Clare has been rather out of sorts - I very cross but after giving her one of Dr H's - "ever-ready bottles" - I had recourse to lemons - as I think the child was troubled by inactivity of the liver, & gave her limonade twice a day, in a few days she improved, & in a week seemed quite right - I am quite out of patience with D. W.'s forgetfulness - & big doses - I wd be glad of an excuse to have some more suitable for the uses of a small family -

Bernard went up to
St. Andrews on Saturday taking Edith & Clare with him & the weather has since been obligingly warm & beautiful, so I think they will really enjoy the country & - perhaps Mary looking better than he expected & able to drive out every day - I delighted to have the variety of the children after her long winter - they will be back Wednesday evening - I have had a most - pleasant time to get on with my summer preparations, Eric going with me everywhere - & I have been entirely to Ellen - who gets on beautifully with her & she thinks her by far the most was 6 1/2 years since several had complained of me about - I will make a list of the of quite a lot of these - I shall make a list of the of these I know them in their workbooks in of course in I will try to find in any of the classes or changes of the members -

We talk of going to Hutto on the 1st next Thursday - I would like to go for the thought the B. A. the summer might be a fine fact of moral he is taken all day, if he goes with me now he arrange for some one to let him to look after things that I can do well in doing with the matter & in the time disappears together with eyes I hope that in the future Hutto will have peace for what with the Congregational Union of N. C. a gathering - Hutto will be in also has inhabitants - I feel to want another, we also has society excepted, a number of teachers, congregation, very well - I wish to see what of the land, I particularly the had into Hutto, Hutto is now for them, I see from that Hutto and to show for them, I see seems & priority of the family - she begins to clutter her pockets up when school days & day camp with a baby, as materials too costly as with the other ones -

Ellen is going home on June 12th I is to come back to the College July 13th I am not about home - I must buy books & cleaners are late engaged - I find if I have all the last week of August - but paper as was as I need to tell Peter later the day of the hours - I want to buy I'Brien about a hundred more books - who had better be in paper before the 15th as I can't think but I must get the that as the papers I also as I told her make her promise to stay till Sept - in any case of the seeds - I got in my case of seeds - I year hear the end of this year of her writing left the her own history of everything that was R. titles no & I have increased the price of letters - she will be a great comfort through the meeting & other necessary expenses & hospitality extended, so the spies returned discouraged & our J. J. Redpath is dead - a sorrowful death when every one feels it rather a comfort - than otherwise

Dr Hunt - has gone to quarters new books & furniture & all - & A. H. reigns supreme - We have had very hot-weather for so early - I found Eric rather short- of coal garments & quite unaid the little boys ^{quite} wear sailor galatin suits their mother had sent-out they w^d be easy to make one had the little cotton undershirts
if you see any I'
not be sorry to have a suit they cannot be castly & w^d be a nice pattern - Caspy still seems happy with her maid but - finds difficulty in arranging for her summer quarters -

I shall be in a new now, till I rush off to Hutis - real to say yr. cottage is still unaltered - but so are some 8 or 10 others there so there must be a back water in Hutis prosperity it may teach wisdom to the natives -

affectionately -
Love to Eva
