Dearest Mother

We are all coming home tomorrow Dr Freeborn says there is nothing else to be done, there is no choice in the matter - Within the last week Eric's throat has become very troublesome both as to swallowing, & sometimes speaking - I fear it will prove distressing, as little can be done, but to relieve - & eating ordinary food will not be easy. We leave tomorrow about 2. & ought to reach Montreal at 9.30 - Will you please have Eric's own blankets & pillows put on our bed & ours on his - I will sleep in the dressing room, & I will like a fire laid ready in my room - If there is time it ought to have a Charwell sweeping to avoid the necessity of its being done soon again - If you can order a few ^{new laid} eggs - & if your cook is ignorant to have her make a little chicken jelly - with no ^{juice of} chicken, or flavouring in it - only lightly salted I sh^d be very glad, as he can sell raw jelly better than fluid or solid.

Clare ~~at~~ or Miss Baker c^d easily telephone for chicken eggs & apters - if only tell you to be sure there is no mistake.
I please don't do anything about my room, but simply give the orders - I don't make the children realize the sorrow of the horn coming - there is no immediate need, & Eric is quite keen about N. news, & has some little present - for most of the party - he will enjoy it, unless the journey knocks him up -

I cannot to Glasgow a last-night in case her plans were circumvented: I told her I would like her to go up with George: & I so or not to send her to go up - perhaps on seeing the way would - the first - night - night to be saved for her I will give us time to decide what next:
I will give us time to decide what next:
I will give us time to decide what next:
I will give us time to decide what next:
I will give us time to decide what next:

Love to also - I send a love to - Carry by some child if possible

Respectfully
Anne
