

Little Note
Aug. 8th

Acc. 1443

Dearest Mother,

I was quite pleased to hear that you had decided to stay longer in England though I certainly regret that we cannot have you here in the delicious quiet of September & when Father wd be with us to hear all the chit-chat of the evening but when the going to England was such a long considered plan & when we thought of doubtful wisdom - how that it is true, & has proved such a very pleasant suspension & change in your lives it wd be a pity to cut it short & the 15th - I am sure wd be of special interest to you

You are gay, or rather have come to Therswick under very favorable circumstances so many friends with you & I trust you will find it - as pleasant & useful as you expected - You do scarcely fail to enjoy it but I incline to think in need our eyes opened rather than our minds instructed & that we overestimate the actual circumstances, as perhaps rather underestimate the possibilities of the near & common life.

You will I trust remember caution in the whirl of the Sept. - gaieties - I try to return well & strong for the winter.
I seriously think it not be quite worth your while to bring out two English maids hoping them to remain for some specified time - they will be out of much useful contact with you & if they were friends or sisters would probably be content & at least have the English id.

I last week since, & he seemed quite & like the quiet of this place - the weather was not of the best & I had have preferred Judeley not being one of the these days, as these are weeks when the duties will but it was a great pleasure to have him & to see him looking well & happy - Mrs Paylar came along yesterday for a time

There is nothing so interesting & delightful as a new baby - I quite envy any one who is in possession of one.
Mrs Sawyer has lately added twins to her already large household -

Dr Braum's eldest son I hear is dead - not wholly a calamity but still almost - more so than if he had lived an ordinary life - the real melting of a long tragedy -

Aunt Mrs Dague ever busily paying visits yesterday & has dispensed with her attendant.

Mrs Frank's new house is very comfortable & quite unlike other people's, a huge double fireplace between the two main rooms a main feature, she has already begun to make it.

changes, & contemplates more, & sends you much love & is always inquiring about you.

The Beck boys are out again - fine-looking young fellows they return to school in autumn.

The cricket & games go on regularly & merrily - Mr Brown plays each time & plays better admirably - I & Seth Hague was playing with them yesterday, & Harold Hayfath the day before - It wd not be better for the boys - though some rather small ones have had to be admitted as these were not quite enough of the others.

I am most sorry to see the summer evening & before long must begin to think of all the difficult-winter problems. I wd be much obliged if you wd get me another roll of his sticking plaster it is most useful - & cannot be got in also I wd like a few packets of good gold-eyed English.
