Dearest Anna

Your letters
arrived yesterday, and after reading were at once sent on to Mamma at Edin. I leave this evening for Oxford on route to Edin.

I cannot tell you how thankful I am
to hear of your continued welfare, and that you are managing so well.
I shall hope to see
you all again by the middle of July; and in the mean time

may feel that he may continue to bless you.

Tell Eva and Nankine that I like
their little letters very much. I have got a Photograph Album for Eva
and a cricket bat (a first rate one) for Nankine, and I hope they will be very good till I return.

We must get something

by word of William I know as yet of your
a nice sleeping cure
with all the apparatus

for a young gentleman.
As for Anna I shall not tell any secrets, I note all your news and pray that all things may work for good. I know they will; and dear Anna do not forget
that all things work for the good of God's children.

Serge and I are well. Marvina was when she last wrote
and she will no doubt
