Dearest Anna,

This has been a most showery day - such showers too - one of the greatest downpours of this rainy season.

In the midst of it I had to go to town, but did not get very wet.

This morning I got two letters from you and one from Edith and was delighted to hear that ^{you} were having charming weather.

Eric has been carpentering today, being anxious to finish his tool-chest. Last evening I took him down to Roddick, but Roddick was just leaving for Bellville when there had been another accident on the grand trunk, and so we shall have to try again.

I saw Bovey to-day and he told me that he was going to write to Carvil to get him another puncheon. Perhaps it would be worth while for you to ask Cavil to get one for us at the same time. ^{peru}

I have arranged for an organ to be sent to Mexico in about 10 days, but may possibly send a little piano instead, though I scarcely think so. A piano is so much more likely to get out of time.

Ene & I are just going to the college for dinner so I must not write more.
I'll Edith & liked her letter very much & will try to answer it soon.

Love from B.

P. S. If the nasturtiums are so very straggling, it might be worth while to cut away a good deal & let them sprout up again.
