

Montreal

Sept. 16th 1894

Dearest Love,

I write this to send by the Russells who leave here to-morrow morning to pay you a visit at Elizabeth town. It is exceedingly kind of them especially as Mr R. had arranged to go with a friend on a shooting expedition and had to go ~~to~~ all the way to Three Rivers yesterday to see about putting it off.
Clara & I have had a great hunt to find the garments, &c., that you wanted and will send them in an old valise that I found in the attic. As for fruit Mrs Russell has got a basket of peaches, pears and grapes, and she is also taking down a number of magazines books &c which she thinks may please Eric. I rather think that her idea is that she might look after Eric for a few days and let you come into town.

This has been a long Sunday without you, dearest, but we have got through and all the children are in bed now. They have been very good, especially considering that the day has been hot and muggy. It has been one of my down days, but no one has known how miserable I have been.

This evening we had a capital sing and the children entered into it most heartily. All of them except Clare + Baby were at Sunday School this afternoon. Clare took Baby up to the Mohon's where he seems to have done his best to show what he could do. Yesterday afternoon Clare, Ruth, ~~and~~ Lois and Miss Baker went to the Anticultural Exhibition. Con + Bernard went to the Redpaths and stayed to tea. Mr R. showed them views with his lantern and they came home in great spirits.

Did you get any books from Morgans before leaving? I have a bill from them and also one from Scroggie

We have had several Cong Faculty meetings already and the entrance & Scholarship examinations begin this week. I have yet to get my papers printed.

What is most on my mind at present is how Eric is to see Trudeau on Soomis and arrangements for the winter made.

Ever your fond Bernard.

I find that I began at the wrong end of my paper. —
