My dear Anna,

I have been very neglectful I fear in not writing to you from time to time since I left Montreal last.
When there I was much impressed with the idea that you should have a regular nurse for Eric, in order that you may be able to give some attention to other affairs of the family without undue strain.
I spoke of this to mother &

I hope that something may be or have been done. The cost I should be very glad to bear & if you could find the right kind of person, she might read to Eric & otherwise help to occupy his mind.

I have not seen very much of Clare while she has been in Ottawa, but she seems to be enjoying her visit in a quiet way. I hope to see you in Montreal during the week as I shall probably be down on Wednesday next for a day

Yours
 George
