

New Haven. Dec. 15

My dear Mrs. Harrington

It has been with very sincere sorrow that we have learned of the death of our good friend Dr. Harrington.

The fact of his serious illness we learned last summer from Professor Cox so that we true, noble character, as they honor him for his scientific services, twice so richly justified. It has been a great pleasure to us to meet him on his occasional visits to New Haven and then to renew the pleasant intercourse of his student days, and it is were in a measure profane, though we had hoped that there might have been a radical change for the better.

Your husband's life in New Haven brought him a number of very warm friends, who were deeply attached to him for his charming personality and with a sense of personal loss that we learn that he has left us.

Mrs. Dana joins me in expressions of my sincere sympathy to you and to your family.

Faithfully yours
