September 27th 46

Dearest Mother,

I got up earlier this morning so that I would have time to write you a long one to make up for the last several letters I should written to you, but I am where you are yesterday. First that a sharp thunder shower fell - came ^{of} on when these and I were out a drive. ~~For~~ ^{with} the the coachman's ~~where~~ ^{where} ~~we~~ ^{we} ~~stood~~ through and ~~had~~ ^{had} ~~as~~ ^{as} ~~it~~ ^{it} ~~was~~ ^{was} I like it of all gas. ~~very~~ ^{very} ~~much~~ ^{much} ~~but~~ ^{but} ~~it~~ ^{it} ~~is~~ ^{is} ~~not~~ ^{not} ~~very~~ ^{very} ~~babish~~ ^{babish} in the ~~class~~ ^{class} of ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~same~~ ^{same} ~~kind~~ ^{kind}.

This morning ~~rather~~ ^{rather} ~~found~~ ^{found} ~~it~~ ^{it} ~~was~~ ^{was} ~~not~~ ^{not} in the dressing-room with her feet poor little Lois with a most fearfully swollen leg just below the knee where she had fallen and it seemed that it had not been properly attended to - it was just full of matter and I washed it out and put a little piece of cotton-flannel on it.

(the only thing I could find!)
The breakfast bell has rung so I must get off my letter till another time.

His is a very hot day
The weather like

under the shutter frame dangling out of the window she seemed to think that it was quite safe. Baby can walk 3 or 4 steps now. The Pease have got a horse. How long is Mrs Russel going to stay with you is she likely to stay long. I must close now for I have no more time.

With much love
