

Harrington

1884 news

head

rt

Flora

was feel sea

unit

Mabel's Garden, Aug. 1920

Miss Bessie Aug. 1880 went up to the father & went first time.

 never bath have not moved yet of Gundersen are coming joins off.
 Eric

up here since as high as 88° Mr Russell has come his yacht & he I don't see a good deal but very much

Montreal
 June 20th

Harrington
 14th 1884
 was read it is floor
 was led sea
 was and 3 1884

nicer. The cabin is all lined with hard wood having any amount of cupboards, drawers & looking glasses in the walls besides the three berths.

After we had seen it we went to see the caravels built in imitation of those of Columbus. They were very small & curious being low in the middle but very high at the stern & bow

Coracl Dawson Harrington

Nov. 14th 1884

was read rt is Hood
was led sea
was ed
1 1884

Conrad Dawson Harrington

Born Nov. 14th at quarter to 1. P.M. being a Monday morning - a fine healthy child - weighed 10 lbs. Very nearly well-shaped & trim - fine head, plenty of dark hair, enough to part & brush, small ears, nice mouth, short fingers, with shapely nails. Ruth was greatly delighted with him & called him & always "boy" which shortly became "Bozzie" the name which adhered to him for a long time, she continued addressed him as "funny boy" & indeed from all points of view "evidently" considered him an excellent joke, laughing at him whenever she saw him.

Presents sent to Conrad Grandmother & Papa - sent him $10.00 & a hair brush

Uncle Haukine sent him $5.00 to lay the foundation of his fortune

Mrs Moyle - a pair of pink socks & a knitted jacket -

Mrs Gairdner a white jacket -

Mrs Penhallow a pair of socks & blue crochet hat -

The others too were greatly pleased especially Eric, a brother seeming of great value in his eyes -

The first two or 3 days he cried a great deal & did not take long sleeps seeming unsettled whether to take a sad or happy view of life, but after that he concluded to spend most of his time in sleep -

As he grew he became very fair & the new hair grew in a pale

Baby No. 5.
Hair cut 12 days old.

gold colour, & his face was radiant with smiles - After much trouble Conrad Dawson was decided upon as his name, I wanted Dawson only, but no one else wd record me in this I wished him to be Francis name - & preferred the Dawson to Wil, being - however his father preferred Conrad - which means I believe Available Cassinellor - & if he so live as to be of use to others, it will be well, in any case he has the guardianship of my name everywhere known for good & truly bear it - & I pray he may worthily bear it -

As I had been troubled with Rheumatism in my knees, I concluded

Teeth

L. lower teeth April 28th
R. " " 22nd
Upper teeth

" Right " Left
Upper left 8th front Sept 11th R Upper back tooth Dec 24th L " " Jan 3rd
R Upper eye tooth Jan 8th
L " " Jan 9th
R Lower back tooth Feb. 3rd L " " ab " 16th
R " eye " Feb 20th
L " " " Feb. 22nd

Second back teeth Sept & Oct of 1886.

Diseases

Inflammation of the lungs at 2 yrs 4 mo } Spring/87.
Measles
& Convulsion caused by a fall immediately after their illness Whooping cough } Spring/88 Chicken pox

keep this baby in bed with me instead of fighting to make him sleep in a crib he became such a comfortable baby sleeping well. I as little trouble as an active & hungry youngster could be had to feel as well as nurse him from the beginning - not having sufficient milk for him as for the others but with the aid of a spoon & cup he managed to supplement nature's provision & thrive amazingly. - He did not go out till spring but always slept in a freshly aired room.

Vaccinated in April it took well but not violently - after he got out in spring he got on faster still & that he improved daily his fair skin, fair hair & lovely pink cheeks won general admiration. he began to creep at 7 months & could stand up by chairs & step a little at 9 months, at that time he was rather sick for a few weeks troubled by a kind of Diarrhoea, caused by his teeth I think, he had 8 teeth at 8 months - we took him to St. Andrews with us in September - where he delighted his grandfather & showed a great preference for him - at 9 m. he had said Coo when he saw a crow, maa for the cow - gee gee for a horse, waa I thought - clear - Indeed he once said Coo - to a robin which hit near him.

I also to a well drawn paper owl we had in our best parlour showing that he quite understood "Cao," means a bird -

At 11 months he wd really walk quite round a room - I before a year delighted in picture books & inquired for his favorite "gū gū" (horse) & seemed little attracted by bright-colours which I noticed as a curious contrast to his others & to most children any catch, or opening or shutting thing, delighted him We also noticed when he was very young that one eye was slightly smaller than the other & that one pupil seemed to be very much larger at times than the other, this peculiarity slowly disappeared, & was no longer noticeable at a year old - unread's he 1 year

At night he was the most comfortable child, sleeping very well for the most part, & if wakeful he wd make a little kissing sound & get up to kiss me often saying papa papa & leaning over to kiss him too, then he wd lay himself down first one way & then another trying to sleep, & if every thing failed, I sat by & held him in my arms, he never received another word & but sang a sleepy little song to himself till he fell off.

He had a very sweet voice, & used to follow singing before 14 months, cried very little when hurt, even when the heart was a burn from a play fire-iron & a splinter which he traced so far as to make a little gathering on his thumb. He was still Borys, & was certainly the most amiable & sweet tempered of babies after ^{three weeks} a long interval after he cut his first teeth & then in two weeks he cut his two upper back & eye teeth with little trouble though he had a bad cold at the time, one night a little feverish & several restless, but always sunny temper, though unwell too, as a baby ought to be who has to do battle in life & fight a good fight.

at 14 months he twice went to toboggan & enjoyed it immensely, it is well far "going Canada" to begin early, in deed we once or twice let him play in the snow with a shovel for a little while. he wd hold out his hand to any stranger & say do, do, do, do, as a greeting, & till his eyes & no. (nose) & mouth & ears, & loved books, even when only a year old wd sit up & turn over the leaves of a book & evidently enjoy what he saw, he loved best to see pictures "gie' gie" as he called them, & never failed

I weaned him at 16 months by which time I had not much for him & he slept well at night I never had less trouble about passing with a baby, I incline to think that the early weaning system is not in accord with nature's law & is only advisable when the mother is delicate or unfit for the care of the child.

to notice the smallest picture of one, he knew how to wave & peep, & cock a shooles too, before 18 months making the appropriate noises for each.

Unfortunately his legs were not quite straight, he was so heavy & active that he wd not rest unless through us did our best. & having a nurse (Lillie Keast) who was not very strong, perhaps threw him more upon his own endeavours - at 18 months he was a pretty child, golden hair or very nearly so, pink & white complexion, & large blue eyes while he had the most wonderful play of expression I ever saw upon the face of such a young child. At this time he discovered that the others called me mother, not mama as he did, & at once began "mo ser" on his own account, & never reverted to the baby form again - he cd say almost any word - hamma (hammer) cold, out - woof (kute) a-papa (grandfather) harrey - etc, etc. he slept very well at night, & also for an hour or an hour & a half in the day time, never making any cry or trouble about going to bed he loved to diggy dig - & adored dolls his fondness for them causing each havanac in the jets of the older children

He had sore throat several times in the spring, which caused me some uneasiness, as it was the first sign he had ever shown of a weak spot.
& I thought his tonsils seemed too large for the proper normal condition.

Ruth & Conrad $3\frac{1}{2}$ yrs 918² June 1886

At Metz he grew very fast into a boy, leaving baby hood behind.
He begged to go into the sea to bathe with the others, & indeed twice he ran in clothes & all - so we took him in, & he made a brave show, kicking & splashing, & fearing neither waves nor cold - he climbed too, like a goat up rocks or down one day being left alone a moment in the nursery up he got on the sill, turned about let himself down by his hands, then dropped the few remaining inches off like the wind - I saw him do this myself several times, or we have believed it, in a little lad of 20 months - Horses he still loved and anything - I put him on the back of an old dog one day, when he looked down with his little feet & stroking the animal with a spoon he had in his hand he bid it go on in a very manly fashion -

We went to St. Andrews in Sept & there the hens & chickens were his special friends, one old brahma cock he never tired of chasing & he imitated its gait so exactly, & the old cock so appreciated the fact that he need not hurry to escape that it was very funny to watch them - Driving was a pleasure for him too though he always wanted the reins to hold & also greatly desired the whip (whip) the horse himself - ra 2,

He cut his four second back teeth this fall with little trouble beyond occasional uneasiness - I was away 4 weeks from him - but he was so well with Lillie & so wonderfully good & well regulated - that I used to say he was a perfect little gentleman at 2 years old - But alas - Lillie left & got first - a young girl & then a prezzi "bonne" who though not distute of virtues, had no tact or apparantly no knowledge of young children Conrad resolutely declined to have his native language tampered with & when she said chewed, he said "no - a horse" - when she said chewed, he said said he "a doggie" & so on - also he w^d not go to bed or eat his dinner or do anything for the new treasure & cried so bitterly & heart brokenly for any one he knew & loved to come to him that finally I c^d stand it no longer when I went in at night - he was cling to me & sob - "he miserable moua" - "he miserable, one sick" - my headache" & he was so evidently sick & sore & sad, that I actually had to take him back to sleep in my room at night - & there was the end of order in the day either

A very nice woman succeeded her, but she had to leave at the end of 6 weeks on account of illness at home. In the end of Jan. dear little Conrad had a very severe attack of Inflammation of the lungs, & though not strong at the time I took him into my bed & watched him 7 days & nights till the crisis was passed, he did not suffer actual pain, but the fever was very high, & the constant application of poultices annoyed him greatly. In the night he wd wake in a fright calling aloud at some fancied wrong or annoyance - & it was often several minutes before I cd recall him to himself, & my presence; then he wd hold my hand tightly, nestle down & say "I love you mother". Ever & over again the same loving little sentence whenever he roused enough to know I was there, he was so wonderfully sweet & patient, taking his medicine bravely - only objecting to the tea-spoonfuls of beef ess. - He was very weak when it was over, not able to walk, but played hours at a time quietly a bag of marbles afforded him endless pleasure, & a purse with a few silver pieces was another charming play, while a little box of blocks was enough to delight him for hours. He had a ludicrous way of abusing any one who annoyed him out of the hat. Dist-look.

Half in fun, half in vexation he wd cry out - "Go away you puma, you staphant you - camel - always something out of the way. & of course the others wd laugh & encourage him, till really I felt it must be stopped, & forbid them to take any notice of him. One day the Dr took a book to rest a paper on, upon wh. he was writing a prescription, I cursed thought he was writing on the book & said "Oh Drs sh^d not write on Solitt's books, that is naughty" the tone of his voice & reproof was so funny, indeed the little man was a bit of an actor & understood the modulation of voice & grimace very well. After this illness we again had a change of nurses & Conrad took cold & had swelled glands in his neck - then back 19th 1887 a new baby came - but as Ellen Davison had undertaken Conrad, I was quite easy about him - & he grew fat & rasy again under her care when in April he took Quasles - which was a sad put back for him - however he pulled through a light-attack very well & we had just-begun to feel easy about him when one night he seemed feverish & ill & in the morning terrified us all by taking a convulsion fit, we got him quickly into hot water & mustard, cold clothes on his head & in about-10 minutes the worst was over, but-it-was a terrible experience - I fancied a fall he had had might-have caused it-but we did not-know - however he was very irritable after that quite unlike his sunny self -

We were so glad to get off to the sea, as we did early in June & there the little Bopie soon became as radiant as ever - he used to look so bonnie in a little crimson dress that Eric had made, & which he wears in the photo on the next page. He did not show the same love of bathing as last-year, indeed only went into the water a few times & then without great-enthusiasm - but a host may his joy - off he wd go like a shot if seen any symptom of a boat being put off - & he wd sit very still when out on the water though he would dreadfully to race, I wd help to haul the boat up on the beach with great show of muscle - Such a manly winning letter "Darling - much interested in the past office of "Innocent's" who had several times given him candy - We went from Metis to St. A. S. & there the fowls delighted him, he wd chase them round the yard, & one day was found expressing a setting hen

wh. strange to say did not seem to resent it - he was found too of slipping off to look for eggs.
When asked where he had got two eggs he appeared with one in each hand he replied

I just went to the egg place & picked these two eggs - His joy was to go out in the carriage with "Lom" & if he cd manage to get the "life whip" he was in his glory.
Every thing interested & amused him & he played so much by himself that he was little trouble

Conrad Dawson 7 2 yrs 46 in George Eric 10 yrs 2 in

I found it troublesome to feed him as he still refused any kind of puddings & was too galling to manage much meat soup, or ^{an} eggs - He took grey & potatoes, such his usual dinner - bread & jam he always inclined too, if any second course was needed - Apples he liked, & milk & flour the usual staple.

He was wonderfully well & strong that winter (87-88) I put him into little jersey suits at 3 yrs & he was the trimmest, neatest little figure I ever saw - He carried himself well, had a honest eye - He began to play with blocks & indeed amused himself easily - & worked himself into a great enthusiasm over a small matter - He wore a dark blue blanket coat with red waist & tugs, & looked capitally, went out - sledging as usual with the others, as brave & as bold as possible always wanted to be out at N. was he was in great pleasure, especially as to a "feet" horse that grandmother gave him - he called it so because it was covered with real skin & hair - Horses were still his great pets - a few - a mackerel & a tin one arrived at N. was & were all welcome - I gave him a crimson suit - wh - he wore N. was day uncle George gave him a dollar in 4 quarters wh - he slipped into his trousers pocket

I jingled with enarmoured pride, when we reached home, I consecrated the money but had trouble in keeping it, for each time the crimson seal came out. Con - we do mand his "silvers" - What for? I wd say "to put in the pocket of my pant-ees" he wd reply - Twice after the new year he had an attack of cramp - once quite an alarm ning one each time he was brought to my room to care for, & he resumed the really angelic sweetness & gentleness of his illness in the preceding year.

Mrs Kessel (a cousin of his father) gave him a large woolly dog drawing a cart & he greatly enjoyed this toy calling the dog "Jack paddle" - Con & Ruth did not get on at all well together, she wanted to manage everything, & he wd by no means agree to that, so I kept Ruth out of the nursery as much as I cd & left him his baby to quiet, there.

Towards spring he took great pleasure in making scrap books - of course the cutting out was in a recidivatory style but the pasting in he managed better - & of course the mess was charming. He began to outgrow his baby charms & became the rough little boy who wd strike Ruth if she teased, & shout & ramp about but still, his long, fair hair, his clear intelligent grey eyes - & a curiously sensitive mouth made him a general favourite with all -

This spring 1888 whooping cough was very prevalent, fortunately in a somewhat mild form - & our children took it - Ruth & Cora had it - most severely & it was very distressing to hear the little lad, cough so dreadfully - & he ^{was} sick at his stomach, when he coughed & losing his meals one after the other - soon made him look pale & thin - he coughed for two weeks like a common cold & for 3 or 4 weeks ^{with} the convulsions & violent fits of coughing peculiar to the disease having the whoop very markedly. It died away slowly, & he was just beginning by the help of our medicines appetite to fill up again, when chicken pox overtook him - Eric had it first & then after two weeks the 3 little girls & Annie the nurse shared it on the same day Wed. May 18th & on Friday Cora had it, Saturday the baby, I had no housemaid at the time, & Annie lay in bed 3 days hopelessly ill & I had a time with the 5 irritable patients, I did not even undress for 3 nights, it was not worth while Cora did not have it - very badly

A. AUBOT, Photographie
H. Harcourt

Nov. 1888

This photo was taken after waiting many weeks for colds & bad weather to pass, scratches to heal etc. & we were much pleased with the result - all the little ones being fairly good. & giving us all a lasting picture of the home at this period.

Feb. 15th /89 A new sister arrived & Conrad gazed somewhat at her at first, but took a keen interest in all about her & few days after she was born he was looking attentively at her & said to me "I know about that baby, - What do you know said?" I know he slowly said nodding his head that she is full of sandalwood & her hair is sticked on - He had a somewhat confused spring coming to nurses charging, but got off to the sea finally with Ellen Dawson in charge - Conrad had a very bright face & beautiful curling hair, with a fine carriage which made every one admire being he used to be called "the Admiral" the young haremster & his fleet - w^h name he had the night the night - we went to bed as he stood up to get his jersey off before going to bed, his little put his hands apart his ~~hands~~ hands crossed on his back & his pretty legs he attracted every one's attention - he began however to be very unwell & inconstant - frequently it seemed to be his pleasure to do whatever he was told & was so very amiable & smiling - that I was quite astonished when he began to say I weep - I continued over each small parcel he received - he used to play with Wilfred Kovey & boys older than himself on quite equal terms, used to often undertake to direct them, he slept up stairs with Claire & came down in dressing gown & shoes each morning to the nursery, & at night went up in the evening - his great ambition was to go fishing with Eric & Gordon to shore whenever staying with us, & one day the big boys did come and to take him with them, he was a capital walker & was keen to learn rowing & did now & then paddle about the shore in our punt, one day when not closely watched he & Kurtz who were playing in the river punt waded it off from the shore & took a few triumphant strokes with their paddles, till they found they could not turn the punt then Kurtz shouted to Con not to paddle & Con continued to give desperate strokes, when Kurtz clubbed her paddle & struck him to save them as she thought, & both shrieked about while the people on the shore laughed at their excitement - I Eric promptly waded out along a submerged rock & pulled them trembling to shore, he was not very brave about bathing, seeming to have lost the fearlessness of former years - boats & pools & swimming about - barefoot - were endless joys - Home again & I had hoped to devote a good deal of time to Con - feeling that his vivid imagination leading him into endless inaccuracy as to facts & even merging into an truthfulness needed not only watching but careful training, while his active restless mind needed informing & taming. However it proved a very unsettled & variable nursery charges & it was occupying the time in the earlier part & then influenza came upon us - & the terrible epidemic attacked every soul in the house, except myself - I was quite warm and after caring for 2 many, & as all were left sensitive & ailing & a windy late spring kept me perpetually watching the children's health - I thought all danger long past - when almost without receiving the best blessing of our home our most-loyely & loving Edith was taken from us - apparently quite well on Sunday ^{morning} with symptoms of slight cold that night not well Monday - but the Dr who saw her having come on another errand thought nothing of it - but I thought her ill Monday night & I sent for him to see her again the next day Pneumonia had set in & there was one long struggle till Wednesday between 4:30 P.M. - when she passed away - not having been more or less delirious from Sunday morning - aged 11 yrs 7 6 m - & oh who will hold my hand now, if I wake in the night & have a bad dream, said little Conrad sol-ber being - he had slept in his little crib beside her all the winter - & when I began to read the story of Jarius daughter to him, he said oh I knew all about that - Edith told me that last Sunday - it had been a bad day, & she had had a little Sunday school at home for the small children & drawing text for them to paint, & giving them little papers from her store, just like a real S.P., she said had grant - my little Conrad, may always remember the sweet - while stories she told him at night, & the little prayers she prayed with him - A month later he was present - at his Aunt Eva's wedding - I was much struck with how decidedly his few words said "I will" - & when we asked him what he said it about - he replied he said he would take care of her when she was sick - The ice cream & wedding cake were also delights to him - Then we had this little photo taken of him & Bernard which we thought very good, & Bernard was put into jersey suit & had had two little blue boys with curls a very pretty little pair they make though very different in disposition

Down to the sea chase, sharing her to dress himself nursery only to have He took a thousand was continually haste - he was bathing this year weather, he often with the nurse

Con again in Clara ranks but sufficient descend to the his hair curled time to dress & being reported to very brave abt & she had lovely went far ahead & the other young

5th & 3rd

children - to pick berries or see any point of interest - old Mr. Crae himself being most interesting & entertaining to the children - I had a great deal of trouble with little Mr. Crae, a favorite with the bigger boys, he picked up many naughty expressions & rude ways, that were by no means to my liking - I was always on the shore myself in the morning, & as often as possible took Con with me or provided some other occupation to keep him as much as possible out of harms way, he took a keen interest in everything, & was so enthusiastic & earnest -

On going home - I engaged a Miss Abbott to give the children sewing lessons during Sept. - while waiting for Miss Burns to come from England. & Cora & Wilfred Boney joined the little girls - I thought it wd be so good training for them, oblige them to be attentive, & not & to obey orders - Miss Abbott was capital at managing them, & Cora learned blanket stitch, & hemming, & running, & did some capital buttonholes - he made a very pretty three-cornered cushion for H. was - after Sept. the sewing lessons went on one each Saturday When Miss Burns came back I put Cora into the lesson class. The old arrangements were broken, by our darling Edith's absence & Cor. was to have half an hour of teaching being to the unsettled winter previous he only knew his letters, & a very little reading he settled down pretty well to his work & I thought it had a good effect in steadying him, & teaching him a more exact habit of mind. After breakfast - I read with Clara & Keith, then all went out, even Lois in charge of the elder ones - & had a good play till 11th when Miss Beerus came, Cor. & I often stayed a little longer as he did not begin lessons till 12th - he had his hair curled & face & hands washed before going down, then dinner, & out again by weather suited - a new sister "Constance Eve" was born on Oct. 4th which put me out of the ordinary life for a while, but Kate managed very well with the children, they were happy & Cor. went down to mother's for a while & I fancy stirred up pretty thoroughly the ghost atmosphere of the College. - I had much anxiety about Cor.'s way of telling pure fictions often prefaced by "mother says" or "aunt says" or whatever he fancied - I do not think he intended to tell absolute untruths, though sometimes he certainly did & was conscious of it - It seemed an uncontrolled imagination fixing on some small foundation of reality & building upon it - I carefully advised him viewing him a message to the nurse, as to going far in, or ^{as to} clothing - I told her to take no notice of his games, but simply tell him to do as he was told. - but with no money children who all did not realize the situation, & also the ser-

wants it was not easy to correct. This tendency E. J. One day I was in my room & Con. was standing by the window - "Oh dear" I heard him say "that poor little girl, why will she lean out of that high window. She will fall & certainly will fall & be killed" - I went to look as he seemed quite distressed & thought some child must be in danger - but - no child was in sight - Apparently some high window had fixed his attention & he combined that with a story he had heard of a servant-girl falling from a window a few days before - When I said to him - "Where Cora? & what little girl" he looked at me foolishly, "like one come out of a dream" & made no reply - Sometimes however, it will be - Kate Mother said we ^{also say} could get on our blue velvet hats, it is quite a warm day I had said at the table, it seems milder today, but never thought or intended any change in the boys attire -

He began to be very noisy & rough with the other children & but always gay & sunny - I most people seemed to like him however troublesome he was - One day I got Eric to take him to see 2 war ships that lay in the harbour, I gave Eric money for the cars as the distance was great to the Jacques Cartier wharf. The cars he found were not running as usual, some repairs about the track, so my little man walked the whole way & back again, reaching home abt 7 1/2 & did not seem much the worse.

It was no use trying to read to him amid the distractions of daily life, I used to go up after he was in bed at night, & read a chapter out of the Linn upon Linn, which in the repose of his bed he eagerly listened to & then I prayed with him - I pointed on finishing the book that he had the whole excellently stored in his memory - He always delighted in little children & admired fondly every nice-looking baby on the street. I remember once seeing a woman with a little child by the hand who on coming to a wet place lifted it up by one hand & carried it across her - exclaiming "oh! oh! oh!" with acute accent of distress - as if it hurt him - "the cruel hearted woman!"

Very hard upon his clothes was the same little mister master, but he always carried himself with an air, that made his garments seem of small account - he went to church pretty often as I could not well leave him at home & he found it very difficult - indeed to keep still, often fidgeting in a wonderful way -

In spring the racing ones often went up the mountain & had great pleasure in picking flowers. I sometimes going up the elevator - Mrs. Tolson very kindly took them up one day, & they had a splendid time -

I came to Metis again on the 15th of June & took Mademoiselle St. James with me. Her was to be her especial charge sleeping in her room, & giving him a daily French lesson, she was very gentle-spoken but made him do as she told him, & I soon began to see that the new influence was telling upon him - I tried to give him enough latitude to expand in, & at the same time to be exact in requiring obedience to orders

Intis was becoming a much more difficult place, so many children of different families & such endless plans & the general impression that they were to do as they liked here, made order & obedience very difficult to get. I often got old Mr. Crag to take them for a drive back into the country just to avoid too much friction & berry picking or any special planer seeking, made be-subject to tend to

I put especially with this child the constant need of wisdom from on high, he has such fulness of life & energy & talent, & yet some strong faults, & so impatient of guidance God grant he may be early led to be a good soldier of Jesus Christ. He took a keen interest in fishing, & w^d dig warrens & sort his books with great energy, but he did not often get a fair chance. Eric & the larger boys thought him too small for their expectations, & though I sent Madame Isabelle with him once or twice she was not knowing enough as to guide he w^d paddle fairly well & manage the punt himself - bathed fairly, but w^d not try to swim -

When we got home Miss H. & I had to leave on account of her health & Miss Humm succeeded, rather an untrained & gawny girl, but she did fairly well as to lessons, but quickly learned English & w^d not persist in speaking French at the children's hammer she lived in the house & saved me much trouble, always a cheerful help in any matter & she had charge of the older children's clothes & looked after them

Co's hair was cut off this spring & was many lamentations. It was my wish for between praisers of its beauty, & scoffs as to the girlishness of curls, he was quite too much unable to think of himself. He was charmed to get rid of the beautiful curls, but now his ears did suffer, with sun & plus he could only lie on his back for nights & nights they were so tender & tender, but it did not elicit a complaint, he was very sunny tempered.

Conrad was very fond of her & he & I always enjoyed going out with her - she went to the sea with us, & there proved very successful & sweet & fresh & I pared no hullar, fatigue this enabled her to go on many joyful expeditions with proper looking after - Con wd be up & out at break of day once or twice running off with the little children if she was a minute late in the morning she was a favorite with the older boys & that did not always please me at home if they were not suitable companions for him, & it always incited him to fight & be rebellious - Eric was good after taking him in the penit - & letting him work with him at carpentering or boat-building, & I always knew he was safe in his keeping - This summer indeed he had grandmamma taking ill & giving us considerable anxiety about her home going, then we were scarcely there when grandpapa was prostrated with Pneumonia, serious in character & on account of his age - I had to spend almost all my time at the College home for two months Brother had to go to the States, Miss Fletcher to be married - meanwhile Miss Foy was inducted into the place the latter she only stayed by the day from 9th till 6 - Con liked her very much but did not learn rapidly with her, but he made a beginning with music, he was much pleased with this & had a most cellent ear, he whistled capitolally & did not care to sing - I have heard him whistle through a hymn in church in excellent time & time & with perfect gravity, & good fact in the propriety of his conduct. His ^{husb} Foy was patience & amiability in all his ways & got on well with Con who began to be a little restless about walks, still the large garden gave him plenty of scope for languishing & snow shovelling & play & Bernard began to serve as boy & not baby & truth was better than 10 brothers when play was in question - Con still had some marked faults, so turbulent & argumentative & inaccurate, but very conciliable withal.

I did not think Miss F's influence was much with him - but Eric was my chief-anchor as example & consultant.
& Con regarded him with unbounded admiration & veneration - The spring of 193 brought swift changes & trials, and some of 7 years to be left - it had to be sold - then while preparing to move the 9th child William was born - on the 19th of May - a glorious excitement it was when the children returning from a visit to the animals at Johner Park - were greeted by Bernard chanting from the window that there was a new baby - 2 weeks later poor Eric was seized by rheumatic fever in another week the family was bundled off to the sea in charge of Miss Foy & Clara & 1880 two or three more days saw us in the new house, not so large as our old & sadly wanting in ~~having~~ little more than a yard to replace our valued garden.

As soon as possible I followed the children to the sea with the little baby & Eric who was very slow in gaining strength & though we did not know the shadow was creeping into our home, that was to darken till it cut off the most hopeful & precious life amongst us. The summer of '93 passed pleasantly in a way - Eric not so much occupied with long excursions, but keen in his devotion to photography, but kept his willing henchman, one day off to Crow gard's falls - where they bathed together often in the hay & heat or went for halcyon as Eric named his paddled - Con gave me great anxiety this summer but gave me seem to grow & his good qualities to that the inferior handstrong will, was more apparent than the kind heart, only with the little children gave us the love tender child peeping out always ready wheel baby as look after little Eric but argue or contend about his clothing or where he was to go or not go - I tried my best to train him but fell myself to scuttling & irritable to deal with the child - Some again to confusion much & great - remembers with governess finally had one for 3 months who proved very unpalatable to the boys - Bernard had his & she begged, & overlooked & married one dreadfully -

rize leat ler.
gh;
; 3, 1897. forern-acis, un-pa-
G.
gh.

LE

98.

2
P
E
C
L
C
A
R
K

C. D. Harrington

158751

credit in the one mile bicycle race under sixteen years. The previous record was held by W. Peck, made in 1897. Two of the most interesting races were the three legged races, which were run in the middle of the football field, as shown in the illustration. It was amusing to watch the youngsters under ten years start in the several races, and there was as much, if not more, interest in these events, as in those of the older boys. J. Carnegie is a coming all-round athlete, and his work of yesterday is a credit to the High School. Major Macaulay ought to be proud, and there is no doubt that the future will see many of yesterday's competitors taking part in more prominent out-door sports.

The summary of events follows:
 Kicking football, open to school; prize by Ald. McBride; eight entries—1, A. Hamil-

Half mile bicycle, boys under 14; prize by C. L. Shorey; nine starters—First heat—1, A. Childs; 2, G. Shearer; 3, C. Grier. Time, 1.48 3-5.

Second heat—1, D. Munro; 2, J. Eveleigh; 3, G. Morrison. Time, 1.43.

Final heat—1, A. Childs; 2, D. Munro; 3, G. Shearer. Time, 1.48 4-5.

Previous record, 1.20, C. Harrington, 1897. 440 yards, open to school; prize by former pupils; three starters—1, W. Covertton; 2, W. Dickson. Time, 56 secs. x.

Previous record, 58 seconds, G. Francis, 1898.

x New record.
 Mile bicycle, open to all school boys under 19; prize by John McDonald; four competitors—1, C. Harrington, High; 2, G. Ross, Westmount; 3, F. Johnson, High. Time, 3.01 3-5.

HIGH SCHOOL GAMES—START OF THE MILE BICYCLE RACE, UNDER 16 YEARS.
 From a Photograph.

Good near 1898.

reproduced in reverse possible.—Dr. Dale.

2 W Summary 89
 2, 9-5 yrs.

connection between sin and shame in Eze. xlii., 10; Ezra ix., 6; Ps. cxix., 6; Rom. vi., 21; Eph. v., 12; I. John ii., 28; Rev. iii., 18; xvi., 15.

II. The Sinner Cannot Clothe Himself.

—He tries to do so. Adam and Eve made themselves girdles of fig-leaves, and Cain offered of the fruits of the ground. (Gen. iii., 7; iv., 3.) No morality, or goodness, or prayers, or religiousness, nor anything else out of man's natural heart, can cover his nakedness before God. A sin-diseased heart is incurable by man, or by God. (Jer. xvii., 9, 10.) God alone can, and He will, give a new heart. (Eze. xi., 19.) Trying to turn over a new leaf, to live a Christian life, to be more religious, is to put on fig leaves and to offer to God that which is of the earth, earthly and corrupt. The natural man has to put off his righteousnesses as filthy rags. (Isa. lxiv., 6.) Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean? Not one. (Job xiv., 4.) See Moses in Ex. iii., 5. In God's presence we can stand in nothing of our own.

III. God's Covering.—

The Lord God made for Adam and his wife coats of skins, and clothed them. (Gen. iii., 21.) Whence these skins? Chapter iv., 4, 'Abel brought of the firstlings of his flock and of the fat thereof.' God's covering for the naked sinner is a slain lamb. Its blood cleansed, its flesh fed and sustained the redeemed life, its skin the robe to cover him. Abel's trust in the slain lamb was his salvation. All this is typical of Jesus and true of us who are trusting in the Lamb of God's providing. 'Neither is there salvation in any other.' (Jno. vi., 57; Rev. i., 5, 6, Rom. iii., 21, 22.)

We would willingly have others perfect, and yet we amend not our own faults.—Thomas à Kempis.

Speaking as one who for many years took an active part among the obscurer members of a great political party. I Ask any doctor and he will tell you that, next to cancer, scrofula is one of the hardest diseases to cure.

Yet Burdock Blood Bitters applied externally to the parts affected and taken internally cured Rev. Wm. Stout, of Kirkton, Ont., permanently, after many prominent physicians failed; Cured Mrs. W. Bennet, of Crewson's Corners, Ont., permanently, when everyone thought she would die. Now Mr. H. H. Forest, Windsor Mills, P. Q., states his case as follows:

"After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by two skilled physicians, but they failed to cure me. I had running sores on my hands and legs which I could get nothing to heal until I tried B. B. B. This remedy healed them completely and permanently, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole."

think that we must often be doubtful whether political and social schemes which are full of promise may not, from causes which human sagacity is unable to anticipate, turn out mischievous. Endeavoring to draw individual men to Christ—in disciplining to Christian intelligence, to righteousness and sanctity, those who already acknowledge his authority—we cannot go wrong. Every man that has received the Spirit of Christ, and is eager to do the will of Christ, is a new power for bringing in more just and more gracious conditions of economic and social life. John Wesley and George Whitfield did more for the social redemption of England than all the politicians of this century and the last, whose names are associated with great reforms; under God, they created those moral and spiritual forces which have rendered all

3/3

Israel
2 W. Summer of 89.
in 4, 9, 15, 20.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 connection between sin and shame in

Eze. xlii., 10; Ezra
Rom. vi., 21; Eph.
28; Rev. iii., 18; xvi.

II. The Sinner Can

—He tries to do so.
made themselves gird Cain offered of the fir (Gen. iii., 7; iv., 3.) goodness, or prayers nor anything else ou heart, can cover his God. A sin-diseased
by man, or by God.

God alone can, and heart. (Eze. xi., 19.)
over a new leaf, to l to be more religious leaves and to offer t is of the earth, earth natural man has to p nesses as filthy rags.
can bring a clean thing Not one. (Job xiv., Ex. iii., 5. In God

stand in nothing of

III. God's Covering

made for Adam and skins, and clothed th Whence these skins?
'Abel brought of th flock and of the fat th ering for the naked lamb. Its blood c fed and sustained the skin the robe to trust in the slain lam All this is typical of J who are trusting in t providing. 'Neither in any other.' (Jno. v Rom. iii., 21, 22.)

We would willingly fect, and yet we are faults.—Thomas à Ke

Speaking as one wh took an active part a members of a great

Handwritten scribbles at the top of the page.

2 W Summer of 89
4, 9/15/89 -

Vertical handwritten text on the right edge of the page, possibly a list or index.

connection between sin and shame in
Eze. xlii., 10; Ezra
Rom. vi., 21; Eph.
28; Rev. iii., 18; x

II. The Sinner Can

—He tries to do s
made themselves gir
Cain offered of the
(Gen. iii., 7; iv., 3 goodness, or praye nor anything else heart, can cover I
God. A sin-diseas
by man, or by God
God alone can, and
heart. (Eze. xi., 1
over a new leaf, to
to be more religio leaves and to offer
is of the earth, ear
natural man has to
nesses as filthy rags
can bring a clean th
Not one. (Job xi
Ex. iii., 5. In G
stand in nothing c

III. God's Cover

made for Adam a skins, and clothed
Whence these skin
'Abel brought of
flock and of the fat
ering for the nal lamb. Its blood
fed and sustained
skin the robe to trust in the slain le All this is typical o who are trusting i providing. 'Neith
in any other.' (Jn Rom. iii., 21, 22.)

We would willin
fect, and yet we faults.—Thomas a

Speaking as one took an active par members of a gre

My little ones in Israel at W. Summer of 89 between 27 9/15 90.

connection between
Eze. xliii., 10; Ezra
Rom. vi., 21; Eph.
28; Rev. iii., 18; xv.

II. The Sinner Ca

—He tries to do s
made themselves gir
Cain offered of the
(Gen. iii., 7; iv., 3.
goodness, or praye
nor anything else o
heart, can cover h
God. A sin-diseas
by man, or by God
God alone can, and
heart. (Eze. xi., 1
over a new leaf, to
to be more religio
leaves and to offer
is of the earth, eart
natural man has to
nesses as filthy rags
can bring a clean thi

Not one. (Job xiv
Ex. iii., 5. In Ge
stand in nothing o

III. God's Coveri

made for Adam an
skins, and clothed
Whence these skins
'Abel brought of
flock and of the fat
ering for the nak
lamb. Its blood
fed and sustained t
skin the robe to trust in the slain la
All this is typical of
who are trusting in
providing. 'Neith
in any other.' (Jno Rom. iii., 21, 22.)

We would willin
fect, and yet we faults.—Thomas à

Speaking as one
took an active part
members of a grea

connection between sin and shame in | A clean doctor and he will tell you Eze. xliii., 10; Ezra
Rom. vi., 21; Eph.
28; Rev. iii., 18; xv

II. The Sinner Can

—He tries to do so
made themselves give Cain offered of the
(Gen. iii., 7; iv., 3.
goodness, or prayer
nor anything else o
heart, can cover h
God. A sin-disease
by man, or by God
God alone can, and
heart. (Eze. xi., 19
over a new leaf, to
to be more religio
leaves and to offer
is of the earth, ear
natural man has to
nesses as filthy rags
can bring a clean thi
Not one. (Job xiv
Ex. iii., 5. In Ge
stand in nothing o

III. God's Covering

made for Adam an
skins, and clothed
Whence these skins
'Abel brought of
flock and of the fat
ering for the nak
lamb. Its blood
fed and sustained
skin the robe to
trust in the slain la
All this is typical of
who are trusting in
providing. 'Neith
in any other.' (Jnc Rom. iii., 21, 22.)

We would willin
fect, and yet we
faults.—Thomas à

Speaking as one
took an active part
members of a gre

Very like little Master Conrad 2nd W. Summer of 89 between 1, 9th & 2nd.

1
2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 connection between

Eze. xliii., 10; Ezra
Rom. vi., 21; Eph.
28; Rev. iii., 18; xvi.

II. The Sinner Can

—He tries to do so
made themselves gird Cain offered of the f
(Gen. iii., 7; iv., 3.)
goodness, or prayer
nor anything else o
heart, can cover h
God. A sin-disease
by man, or by God
God alone can, and
heart. (Eze. xi., 19
over a new leaf, to
to be more religio
leaves and to offer
is of the earth, ear
natural man has to
nesses as filthy rags
can bring a clean th
Not one. (Job xi
Ex. iii., 5. In G
stand in nothing o

III. God's Cover

made for Adam a
skins, and clothed
Whence these skin
'Abel brought of
flock and of the fat
ering for the na
lamb. Its blood
fed and sustained
skin the robe to trust in the slain All this is typical who are trusting providing. 'Neit in any other.' (J Rom. iii., 21, 22.)

We would will fect, and yet w faults.—Thomas

Speaking as or took an active p
members of a great

*one 10 days.
Benedict H. ...*

Very like little Master Conrad 2nd summer of 89 between 2, 9th & 3rd -

CAUGHT BY THE TIDE,

AND OTHER

PICTURE STORIES.

London :

THE RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY,

56, PATERNOSTER ROW; 65, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD; AND 164, PICCADILLY.

HARRINGTON T., On August 8th, at 119 St. Matthew Street, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Conrad D. Harrington. 193 3

[Faint, illegible handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

[Faint, illegible handwritten text visible along the right edge of the page.]

heart, heart a good sweetie: I hope that spring will be as early I mean on your very sincerely

Anna S. Hastings

to stay as long as I was there - Do you know how she washes? & whether she wants to go out by the sea or take the washing out

I shall probably send the children down about the middle of June with governess & nurse. I shall follow when I can. when will probably not be till late in July - I shall let you know dates later & will trust to you collect 8 or 10 clay-eggs for them to begin on. - I do wish that you wd get a little cart-ready for the milk. it wd be so much more satisfactory for the milk & less trouble for you. Lady Dunson will probably want you to supply her. It might be worth while writing to Mrs Beck & Mrs Welford - the latter has been ill most of the winter & very likely will send her

Beepie!

Ora McFisueg sent this letter to C.F.H.

Today! Can you believe it 1893

or vellam -?

Exciting - Shows us the way to keep everything is to leave it in Grandmother's trunk!!

That's where Ora or Jay found this —

Walleran Hill.

May 1st 1871

Dear Mrs Lepage,

I have not been able to answer your letter for we have had so many distractions & Miss Dr. Harrington has been ill for a week which gave plenty to do. I also Sir W. & Lady Dawson arrived from their long winter winter.

I wd be very much obliged if you wd engage "Lily" for me for the three weeks in August. I shall if all goes, as I expect, be staying late at Lutes, probably about the 3rd week of September. I wd want Sir

KIDNAPPED IN DAY-TIME.

Conrad Harrington Carried by Force to the Country

Where He Was Set Free in Open Field Unhurt—Robbery Not the Object, Nor Revenge.

Several days ago Conrad Harrington, the 12-year-old son of Prof. Harrington of McGill University had rather a startling experience. He had been skating with some other boys at a private rink, and about 6.30 was standing on St. Catherine Street near Fort Street, waiting for a comrade. He had his back to the street. Suddenly he was grabbed roughly round the neck and flung into a sleigh. He was then covered up with a thick robe. The man, of whom he got but a single glimpse and saw nothing, but a bearded face well muffled up, then sat on him. All was done so quickly that he had no time to give the alarm. The man drove rapidly away, and unbuckled the strap from the boy's skates to whip his horse with. After driving what seemed a long distance the unknown flung the boy from the sleigh and threw his skates and hockey stick after him, retaining only the strap.

ALD. RAINVILLE.
Liberal Nöminee in St. Louis Division.

He drove away quickly and was soon out of sight. The boy found himself on a large open field toward the west end of the mountain, through which ran a half-beaten cart track, but he did not recognize the place, nor were there any lights by which to guide him, except the distant city light. He walked towards the mountain and came to Sherbrooke Street, reaching home after a long and weary tramp about 9.30 in the evening. His parents were naturally anxious, and his father was just going in search of him when he met him in the University grounds.

There is no clue whatever by which to trace the cowardly driver. Conrad Harrington did not see him distinctly enough to give even the slightest description of him. Nor does he know the field where the man left him.

The object of such action on the part of anyone is hard to account for. No injury was done, Harrington in any way. That it was a joke is hard to believe. That it was done in a spirit of revenge seems harder still, as during the whole time, the man never spoke, but kept humming to himself. This might almost give the idea that he was insane. Whatever the reason, so many things of this nature have happened lately that it is time the police took further steps to protect the citizens.

Harrington—Fetherstonhaugh.

The Church of St. James the Apostle was the scene of a very pretty wedding yesterday afternoon when Miss Muriel Theodora Fetherstonhaugh, was married to Mr. Conrad Dawson Harrington. The Rev. Canon Ellegood, assisted by the Rev. A. P. Shafford, performed the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her father, Mr. E. C. B. Fetherstonhaugh, wore a gown of ivory satin embroidered in pearls and trimmed with Carrickmacross lace. Her veil of lace belonged to her great grandmother and was arranged with side clusters of orange blossoms. The bridesmaids were Miss Vera Ibbotson, Miss Marion Creelman and Miss Lois Harrington. They wore gowns of white charmeuse with tunics of embroidered net and carried shower bouquets of Killarney roses and lilies. They also wore the bride's gifts, silver shoe buckles. Their hats were of white French felt, with a soft bow of shell pink Liberty satin, and faced with black velvet. The best man and the ushers were Mr. Edward Winslow, Mr. Edward Savage, Mr. Sydney Lyman and Mr. Harold Fetherstonhaugh. Each was presented by the bridegroom with a scarf pin. Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh, mother of the bride, wore a Saxe blue Liberty satin gown, with bolero and train of blue and gold brocade velvet. Mrs. B. J. Harrington, mother of the bridegroom, was in a black velvet gown with lace and a black hat with grey willow plume. Lady Dawson, grandmother of the bridegroom, was gowned in black velvet with lace fichu, and lace cap with mauve bow. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, Sherbrooke street, and later Mr. and Mrs. Harrington left for New York and the mountains, the bride travelling in a dark tweed costume and a dark emerald velvet hat trimmed with pearls.

Head Master - J. TYSON WILLIAMS, B.A.
Emmanuel College, Cambridge.
The boys is situated about 100 miles from
d. Boston & Maine Ry., giving easy 38. preparatory school are beautifully situutilitated, and comprise gymnasium, playgrounds. ngston, the Universities, and Business mosty graduates of English Universities ber 12th.
apply to the Head Master.

CADEMY OF MUSIC AL, Limited.

1913-1914.

PLTY.

J. Ross, Miss N. V. McNaught, Miss Elsie

Rowe, Mrs. McDougall, Elliott.

g, Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition,

'Phone Uptown 3542.

- F. H. BLAIR.

BUSINESS COLLEGE

Day and Evening Classes. Positions for l Graduates. Individual Instruction. respectus Free.

SCHOOL RE-OPENED MONDAY, AUG.
th. Office now open for enrolment of aw students.

ool of Elocution ke Street West.

Exceptionally strong staff. qualified, experienced and amatic Art, Orthoepy

, Literature, Etc., Etc. delightful courses for public d English.

INTMENT. 'Phone Up. 3542

McGill University

CONSERVATORIUM OF MUSIC

Director, H. C. Perrin, Mus. Doc.

The Session 1913-1914 opens September 22nd.

INSTRUCTION in Pianoforte, Singing, Violin, Violoncello, Organ and all Orchestral Instruments. Classes in Elements of Music, Theory, Harmony.

MARRIAGES.

HARRINGTON-FETHERSTONHAUGH—
On Tuesday, 28th instant, at the Church of St. James the Apostle, by the Rev.
Canon Ellegood, assisted by Rev. Alan P. Shatford, Conrad Dawson Harrington, of this city, to Mabel Theodora, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.
C. B. Fetherstonhaugh. 230 2

SOX CHATELAIN — On September

HOW DAWSON WAS NAMED.

Origin of the Name of the Yukon Capital.

It sometimes happens that the origin of the name of a city is so far forgotten as to become a matter of dispute after a certain lapse of time. It is, therefore, interesting to learn that steps have been taken to obviate this in the case of Dawson City, in Yukon, which was named by its founder, after Dr. G. M. Dawson, the late director of the Geological Survey, who first explored that country. His brother, Dr. W. Bell Dawson, of Ottawa, has presented to the Canadian Club, of Dawson, an enlarged photograph by Topley, which has been received with much appreciation; as will be seen by the letter of acknowledgement from the secretary of the club, from which the following extract is taken: "At one of the informal dinners of the Canadian Club, between 30 and 40 members were present; and the picture of your late brother was exhibited. A resolution was unanimously passed, tendering you the club's heartiest thanks for your gift. The members greatly appreciate the honor you have done us. Speeches upon the motion were made by several of our prominent members, some of whom on coming to this country, followed the trail from Edmonton by the "all-Canadian route," and were able to express from personal experience, the high estimation in which they held Dr. Dawson's work. They declared that his map was as good as a well defined trail, being a "literal photograph of the country, and containing information which was phenomenally complete and accurate"; that his surveys were superior to all others, partly owing to the fact that he made great exertions and underwent severe physical strain to get all the facts possible and to verify them by personal observation on the mountains.

"It was ordered that, for the present at least, the photograph be hung in the Dawson public school, where it can be an inspiration to our youth who will be made to understand and appreciate the work and character of the late Dr. Dawson. In this building the club was organized; we have no permanent club room as yet."

Presbytery of Peterboro to recall its roll the name of Rev. Mr. Benne. To the Presbytery of Montreal was given the permission in the case of Rev. J. B. Muir.

The late Warden King left ten thousand dollars in his will to be used as an extension building fund. The portion of the will bearing on the legacy was read and a special committee was appointed with authority to receive the legacy, to hold it in trust for the Church in terms of the will in the meantime, further action required to be taken at the next Assembly.

The following standing committees were appointed:

Presbyterian College, Montreal, (1). Board of Management—Mr. D. Morrice, Chairman; Principal MacVicar, Dr. J. Springer, Prof. Ross, Dr. John Campbell, Dr. A. B. Mackay, Dr. Warden, Dr. Barclay, J. M. Crombie, Messrs. J. R. McLeod, W. R. Cruikshank, J. Hastice, L. McLennan and W. Morrison. J. Flock, W. T. Herridge, W. A. McKenzie, D. Currie, J. R. Lobson, ministers; and Sir J. W. Dawson, Sir Donald Smith, Messrs. A. C. Hutchinson, W. D. McLaren, W. Yulte, Geo. Hyde, A. C. Clarke, C. McArthur, John Stirling, W. Paul, M. Thompson, Jonathan Hodgson, M. Hutchinson, A. S. Ewing, Charles Byrd and Henry Birby.

(2) Senate—Principal MacVicar, Chairman; professors and lecturers of the college; Dr. A. B. Mackay, Dr. Warden

By way of supplement to McCord's admirable tribute to Lady Dawson's memory, it may be not untimely to remind our readers that the life of Sir William Dawson was published not very long after his death. It is entitled "Fifty Years of Work in Canada, Scientific and Educational: Being Autobiographical Notes by Sir William Dawson, C.M.G., LL.D., F.R.S., etc., etc., late Principal, McGill University, Montreal." The work was edited by the late Rankine Dawson, M.A., M.D., M.R.C.S.E., and published (1901) by Messrs. Ballantyne, Hanson & Co., London and Edinburgh. It is of interest to note that the author's preface is dated from Little Metis. The words and tone of this preface are thoroughly characteristic. Sir William Dawson trusts that his reminiscences may be of some use to his children and grandchildren and "perhaps to others who may have been influenced by his teaching." Then he modestly and piously adds: "To me they are rather a record of failure or of very partial success, and I may truly say that the failures are my own, the successes due to the guidance of my Heavenly Father and to His overruling Providence." He then refers briefly to his work as a teacher of Natural Science. Any success that he has had he attributes to his "reverent regard for every natural object as the handiwork of the Divine Creator and as consequently a sacred thing." In this, adds Sir William Dawson, lies "the true secret of any power to influence young people." There is a chapter in this book of memories which has just now a more than ordinary importance. It is that in which Sir William Dawson speaks of his marriage. Every word in it is of value as part of the record of a great man's intellectual and moral development. "Our union," he says, "was one of mutual affection, esteem and respect, and it has been, I believe, wholly a blessing to us both. To me it has been the crowning joy of my life." To those who are gifted with imagination this book is a quite comprehensive portrait gallery. The last chapter contains portrayals of Sir William Dawson by some of those who knew him best. In portraying the man whom they revered, they give us glimpses of themselves. To these portrayals may now be added Mr. McCord's tribute to Lady Dawson, in which, we doubt not he voices the judgment of his contemporaries of an earlier day as well as of the present.

