My dearest-Love-

When I see you will be quite glad to get out of town & away from patients, cooks & nurses, though to be sure you have been troubled rather by the want of them than their presence.

The rose came, sweet & lovely, & a number of people at the house for the Bible Reading services, it I praise its odor which certainly is delicious, it does look a little like a delicate rose though.

Arthur B.'s wedding is fixed for the 5th so you must think of them on that day. I think they are sure to be happy, & they have waited such a long time that I sh^d think nothing we^d seem unbearable, just to feel that they were together at last.

Little Eric who has been quite a model boy at night had a desperate cry last night nearly two hours - he fussed, fretted & wept - poor lamb?
he has more hives and eruptions again. I wish I c^d find a remedy for them for they are such a tiresome & chronic sort of thing. That last tooth has not yet appeared - but must be very near I sh^d think - He is becoming very observant, I was shocked to see him trying to blow his nose with his fingers the other day & then turn his little head round & spit - he must have been watching some hurried French Canadian. Well. He: it looks so funny, so funny, of course I scolded him, but I had to go into the house & laugh.

His little short fingers & fat little nose! It was so ridiculous.

Papa has got back from Dubuc & leaves again Wednesday with Eva for home.

He brought some delicious apples down with him, wh-shant that autumn is at hand.

Thanks for the Dunch, I thought that picture of Constance & Alfred was capital - I fear it is too much like the way we are apt to impose upon good wintured husbands & then blame ourselves upon our excellent arrangements.

I went for a walk along the shore & managed to get back very tired, why I don't know. For it - was not such a very long walk. I must try & make it - up today.

Whether is at - all - fair just - perfect. The actors are going off in troops daily.

Where shall I send my next letter to?

I really dear
your
Aunt

I enclose James's note you did not tell me
the price of the paper it is too small a thing to put - her under obligation for.
