Dear Sir

Canada

Returning from out of town, I find, on my desk a copy of your very interesting life of Sir William Logan, for which I am indebted either to Wiley & Sons, the publishers, or to you personally. Not knowing which is the case, I prefer to send my individual thanks to you; and I shall probably satisfy the publishers by the notice of the book which I shall print in an early number of the Engineering & Mining Journal. As that notice will express more at length the pleasure with which I have read the volume, I forbear to say anything further on that head at present.

Pass present to your wife, and to Principal Dawson and his family my cordial greetings, in which Mrs.
Raymond, now at our country place in Pennsylvania, would earnestly join if she knew I were writing.

Yours very truly
R. W. Raymond
