Little Inetis -
Tuesday

Love W.S. = Baby

Dearest - to -

I find a danger. experiment - has been successfully tried & that ink has stand here all winter unharmed, & unharmed -

We have had charming weather & the children were good - Bernard was the only one who ever pit-to cry & that did not last - very long - The train was not crowded & we all have been very comfortable, only Ellen seems sick most of the way & never tasted a bite, despite of a brisk cup of tea I got for her at Lewis - Had a thing I thought she wd be all right - as soon as we left the train - but - no! we had to stop half way down - to let her dismount & be "actively ill" - I am sure he had providently driven up alone, & so I had to drive one shandy down - I risk the precious lives of Conrad & Eliza & Eliza in so doing - A night breakish little young man who stumbled, & had no sort of steady pace, & wd tear down hill - however here we are weather lovely & warm - sun-quitas plenty - Flora had a fire on, & a few things ready Ellen collapsed - & baby will not sleep, & finally shrieked with all her might - in protest of new nurses - Berners promptly set down on the gravel path & was happy I by dint of flaccid being rained with baby in tow panel & keys in the other we have got - all the little people put to bed - & the plants also put in bed old muckle was in waiting & dars not - look much the worse of his winter - I don't find the cellar key, but punshous full of water know not - really was dead. My being - as all the heard - don't think twice of it - as if I do not will have to take the whole out - perhaps it's only Muckle's business I thought - there was a pistolock & your hair a key for it -

Some are even as far as - I will have the for a wash in washing -

Yours truly
George A. Lewis

Five weeks still only a little clearer & Ellen comes to life again so we should be all right
