Piedmont
Hot cross Buns
April 12th 1955

Dear Father,

Do you have hot cross buns down in Bunker Hill Hotel we had some for breakfast, they were about the size of a foot ball. I made a humpty dumpty Easter egg for Mr Molson on Easter Sunday he is on a wall and all & I made a little chinaman fairy for Mrs.

Molson it is something

his pig-tail or queue does not stick around the side it hangs sedately
at the back like a proper queue. Yesterday I was going down
in the carriage to bring Mr. Molson home when we had just turned the corner in the way
going down we were
behind a cab and Mrs Molson's horse was going pretty fast when

suddenly the cab stopped and John had to stop
up to turn <sup>aside</sup> pretty quickly and our wheel grazed
the wheel of the cab
and it frightened Charlie (the horse) and he set off at a terrible pace
and went bang into
a cart and banged
into a telegraph post
one in each side the carriage smashed to pieces and a gentleman stopped the horse, just as John was thrown out and
the horse went prancing

about on the sidewalk
and immediately a crowd gathered around the
horse and stopped it.
and the gentleman who
had stopped the horse
came and opened the carriage door and wanted to know if I would take a car, or if he
the same car as I did
as he was going up that way and he wanted to
course I would not
let him do it.

I believe he was a Mr Wheeler, the Canadian Agent of that large chocolate manufactory in the States, he gave me his
no fault of John's about the carriage, a wheel
and the shafts were broken. John was hurt
on his back and
hip. Sossingham sent her love to both of
you. Please excuse writing for I am so impatient to see the

are at home. With Much Much love
Ruth.
