Dearest,

I delay I have received a letter from Rossland, which you seem to find quite a metropolis. I was very disappointed to hear that you were still troubled by yr. cough. I do trust you will take every care & precaution to get rid of it - I benefit by the mountain air - I had no idea that there was such magnificent scenery on the Arrow lake indeed my knowledge of the geography of that region is not very definite.

Tom has only one more holiday & runs against his cruel fate -

Truth has quite a week yet & I am glad of it, she looks much better already, she has been skating & gone dead & as there has been no gayety, she has had good sleep - she is to go to Miss Lichtentun tomorrow & pretends to be very nervous abt. it - Bernard has again been up to the Botanical Gardens & Hattie was out - at tea today with Elizabeth Warton no ~~traces~~ definite occupation now or he will soon be a spoiled boy - I will try & resume the Steindergarten business tomorrow. I have also to go into the boys club before long, is absorbed in school again -

Benjamin Dawson suddenly & unexpectedly appeared here today - Mary had sent for him as Florence is still without a nurse & the holidays were trying: Bernard & Lois are to go to the 21. Street Co. Warehouse - By the way many regret as to your absence from the last year's lunch. Dr. Young is reported to have arrived at the rice marketing, & then proceeded to have eaten free shares of the rice marketing as well as his own - Whether I was disposed to share with 'pardonable' treatment along - It was rather too cold for my taste. but - perhaps as I had not to say much =

all love also
