Dear D. Harrington

I feel tempted to explain my unpractical regimen in matters of finance though the explanation I am aware rather increases the offence. The fact is I am always very careful to travel with extra supplies, to meet un-foreseen contingencies, & was astounded to find myself without ten dollars: the mystery cleared itself before I reached the station: in a pocket unsearched I found thirty-dollars & more! I send you five with very many thanks: I hope you will some day arrive in Toronto (when I am here) - with ten cents & restore my self respect by borrowing your railway fare from me. Please remember me to your wife and - I suppose under the circumstances, it is allowable to add without impertinence - your "pretty daughter". I am accustomed to finding Canadian children pretty but I don't think many of them look so strong & rosy at the same time. I have always boasted that health was monopolised by English children.

I am
yours truly
Maurice Hutton
