My dear George

Another week I have we are got in the midst of our caching racket very different from our usual kind of busy life. We would enjoy one or two pounds but you at once is too much. I got a new servant home tonight. I was old Mary who has been acting as Chamber maid will get back to her post as Cook. Do you know she has had an offer of marriage & is probably going to leave us after seven years service.
Ames & I have wanted to give got a scalding for falling off in giving no details of your sayings & doings & I may add in answering & taking notice of important remarks in my valuable letters. Your letters to Rankine & Swan are so interesting because generally they let of something you have been engaged in personally.

Mr. W. Logan called four days ago & told us you were looking particularly healthy & strong.

I have been three times at the top of the mountain this Spring. The last time was on the 25th (Queen's birthday) when we searched over much of the Cemetery. It was very warm & the leaves had suddenly burst out of their Casings the ground shows with wild flowers.

There are many changes & additions of both tombs & walks since I have been there two years ago. Near the foot of our lot there is a very handsome vault tomb erected. In the garden we are now enjoying a profusion of narcissus & tulips. I hope you will see a good deal of Mrs Baynes while she & Mr Baynes are in London.

Please excuse this excessively stupid & crumb. It is written merely as proof of my intention to avoid a heat in our Correspondence. Hamilton is writing Anne Jewes Child is groaning out a despairing regret that she cannot write this time but you must excuse our whirl & excuse us all.

Believing me & Anne & all yours ever loving affectionate

Yours
Annie
