Dear Seng,

We are still waiting here to watch the progress of Curad's case and to take him to Metz if possible. We may get away this week.

Mamma and I
remained at Montebell till Wedy evening, and I saw a good deal
of the Laurentian geology there. It has

Several points of interest, especially as to the cause and
nature of the crumbling
of beds associated with the limestone
and the occurrence
of apparently clastic
materials, in which I hope to find some traces of fossils, and in any case evidence of aqueous deposition

of the ordinary character,

I enclose, per; a letter I have written to Dr Ells, which you may read and will oblige me
by forwarding to
him. I am hoping to work up my notes
at meters and
shall be glad to have them in course
of the summer

anything he can give me. Photos of the cuttled rocks
I am told can be
had of Notman
in Ottawa.

Conrad seems slightly better, and Mamma
has been tormented
with toothache, and
is suffering from the heat, but does not like to leave till Anna & Conrad can go.
Ever yours
Madison
