My dear George

I was just about to write to you when your note of yesterday was handed to me. I know he<sup>1</sup> was pleased with the information he got from the pamphlet you sent as he afterwards added a paragraph to his article, but I have not had an opportunity of reading it so cannot write definitely. We have been rather uneasy about father as for the past few days he has been markedly weaker - his speech less distinct, & slightly more deaf.

 He drove out yesterday when he lost his stick - choppers and got the carriage I suppose. He has become so accustomed to the form of the handle that he cannot be reconciled to any other, & in the evening we used this as a reason for his taking his tea in the library, altho the chief cause was awe fear of the stairs. This morning he has taken an excellent breakfast but has choppers to sleep again. So I have sent to ask Mr. Blackwell to call.

It is about 8 or 10 days past, by Mr. B's order, is taking a small dose of bromide after dinner ~~to~~ to soothe his nervousness & enable him to take a sleep in the middle of the day, whether this at. has caused continuous drowsiness I don't know, must think not best, of course, I will ask him. I think it right to give you these particulars & get on with diffidence lest I alarm you about what is necessary. Some or will write again tomorrow or perhaps tonight after we have seen Mr. B. according to his opinion you will then telephone to Will please you have not sent me the amount I owe you for books.

 In a letter I had yesterday from Eva she tells me that Blanche thinks the books "exquisite". She had just received her <sup>with ink</sup> stand! Eva was at I shall believe she was enjoying them for five weeks.

Written hastily, but in all love
 Mother
