My dear George

your beautiful Sweet-smelling Swenstern apples have just reached - Carriage free I have delighted your father - the fragrance recalling sunny days of travel through the Annapolis valley & affecting him even to tears. He asks me to thank you very gratefully.
Last night he had a somewhat disturbed rest - flatulences & occasional pain in the chest making him restless.
I sent per Bluekades to pay an early visit & he assures us it is of no account it being the highest dyspnoea of the pleura with the congested part of the lung - to keep his bed for today, to be careful to take light diet & all will be progressing as before tomorrow.

Nothing further has been done about the property as Bernard <sup>is</sup> not obtain an interview with the expert before 3 o' this P.M. We shall however tell you the result & afterwards what the medical men think of your statement.

Yours affectionately
 Maithes.

Tues day
