Dear Rankine,

Another letter
wishes to send kind regards and to say we are well. Alice Craw leaves us to-day to go to England in the Palmer, and our college work is now fairly started
in most of the departments.

found as usual a very heavy burden of hard work and care, but am hoping for a little relief so soon as everything is in its usual routine. OSLER

But other people here
now all got back from the west and most of them are off to England, though a few still linger on this side. I hope they will carry a good report, though they have certainly had
some misadventures,
a great fall of rock
on a landslide in a cutting in the Rockies.

Came very near Kelling Island, and they were saved up by an hour's delay from going through one of the tunnel bridges East of Port Portage.
Others who went to the Suprenay were on the steamer of that name which took me at Murray Bay, and though they escaped with their lives but all their baggage. I suspect they will have a vivid impression of the dangers of travelling in Canada.

Warrington has lost one of his sisters, the one lately ^{Mr van Cottland} married, who died in childhood, and she offspring of the family and a cause of some extra labor & anxiety
 to Bernard himself. His note book is also in very poor health.
 Anna and the children
 are well and the latter developing in intelligence & knowledge at a very rapid rate.
