My dear Jones

I was nearly as ignorant as you appear to be as to the meaning of the Titles assumed by some Irishmen such as The Knight of Kerry, The O'Conor Don. &c But I believe some of the most celebrated ones such as the Knight of Kerry are only known by those Titles and you might as well call the Duke of Bedford or any other nobleman by his Christian Surname as those worthies who are only known by such Titles. For your future information I give you a list of these from the Irish Directory.

Ancient Irish Titles still retained by the Lineal Descendants -

Coolavin Prince of, Chas Jos. Mc Dermott Coolavin Boyle

Glin, Knight of, John Fraincis Fitzgerald Glin Castle, Limerick.

Kerry, Knight of, Peter Fitzgerald Ballinruddery & Glanleam, Valentia, Kerry

Killoe, Titular Baron of Co Down (A.D 1410) by Lineal descent Thos John Russell (a Count in the Papal States)

Mc Gillycuddy of the Reeks, Richard Mc Gillycuddy D.L. Whitefield Killorglin Kerry

O'Conor Don, The, Charles Owen O'Conor M.P.

O'Donoghoe of the Glens M.P. nephew to the late Daniel O'Connell Esq. Cahirciveen Kerry. (he appears to be double Known Name no christ. or surname given)

O'Donovan, The, Morgan R. Mountpelier, Cork.

O'Gorman, The, Mathghamhnan (Mahon) D.L. Clare Mahonburgh, Innis.

O'Grady of Killyballyowen, Killyballyowen, Bruff Limerick & Carrigneahow, Passage West, Co Cork.

O'Haine Mór, or Chief of Hymaine in Galway & Roscommon, Denis Henry Kelly Esq of Castle Kelly, D.L. J.P.

O'Neill of Clanaboy, "Senior of the race of Owen" Charles Henry O'Neill of Blessington Street Dublin and The Fleva, Co Antrim -

There is a list of wild Irishmen for you don't think I have taken too much trouble to enlighten you now you will know them all.

Very truly Yours
