Dear Mr Jones -

It is long since I have heard anything of you - I trust that you have been well during the years that have passed since we met - I am writing now to ask you a favour - A young friend of mine who is about to compete for the Chancellors

Latin Verse Prize, Subject
"Primeval Man." has asked me to tell them
the best books from which to obtain a good knowledge of Modern ideas on the subject - I feel sure that you are the man who can give the information which I cannot do, & I shall feel greatly obliged if you will kindly write me the names of such works
as you would recommend for the purpose -

Pray excuse my troubling you, & with kind Regards, & all
the good wishes of the season, I remain Yours very truly
