Dear Sherborn

I think I see my way clear to begin seriously tackling a general map of the Hampshire chalk, but I should be very glad if I might discuss the method of doing so with you in the light of your much wider experience. I could come & see you any night next week except Wednesday.

Have you had occasion to ascertain the nature & name of the enclose petrified cats-cradle? It is very scarce in Hampshire but no doubt more often found in your weathered cliff surfaces.

Yours sincerely
R. M. Bryd one
