THE POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY
EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT

Garrison-on-Hudson, N.Y. September 1, 1911

Dear Mr. Ridgway:-

I venture to address this letter to those men of science whose assistance would be of value in the conduct of THE POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY to ask whether they would have the kindness to suggest one or several articles which might be obtained for the MONTHLY and printed there to advantage. As the MONTHLY can not pay for contributions it is not easy to obtain articles of a high scientific standard which are at the same time interesting to all readers. I trust that the MONTHLY has sufficient value to entitle it to the support of those scientific men who could make it more influential as a factor in increasing interest in science.

Very truly yours,

J. McK. Cattell
