Dr. Casey A. Wood,

Dear Sir:

On my return home
from Red Cross work in Washington, I find your most kind gift of a sumptuous volume entitled
"The Fundus Oculi of Birds" and written by you.

I am quite overwhelmed

by such a kind attention as from one kind student to another, and for which to express my appreciation I fear language. I am greatly in your debt.

The account of study and scientific attainment unfolded in these volumes are tremendous and of great value. From writers from a Coral Island Reef not far away, who have not been working over the book, and to whom all efforts are of special interest, I have received greatly by your original research.

I am off to Moorea with my husband on a Reef Cross Steamer to Hawaii, Japan, Korea, China and the Philippines, or I would have time to dwell at greater length
