Dear Dr Clarke,

I heard a bird singing in the gardens last night about 10.30 p.m. or so – which sounded to me rather like the nightingale (which was broadcasted from the South of England later in the evening). I wonder whether you heard it or whether you think it possible for a nightingale to appear so far North in Britain.

Hoping you all keep well & with kindest regards,

Yours sincerely,

W. D'Arcy Thompson
