Bowdler Sharpe Collection

BRASENOSE COLLEGE,
OXFORD.

Feb: 14th, 90.

Dear Sir,

Having come across a specimen of the young of Eupetes longicaudus, which had been taken from the Treacher collection before it was placed in the Oxford Museum, I am venturing to send it you, since I see from your "Catalogue of Birds" that there is only one specimen in the British Museum. I am afraid the skin is not a very good one.

BRASENOSE COLLEGE
OXFORD

I should be greatly oblised if you would inform me whether any Monograph of the Cucujidae is published or in contemplation, in England or elsewhere.

I am, Sir,

Yours truly,

Frank Finn.

R. Bowdler Sharpe, Esq.