Dear Sir:—

Please accept a rather tardy acknowledgement of the copy of your book on the Fundus Oculi of Birds which you sent me recently. It is a most welcome addition to my ornithological library, & while my knowledge of opthalmology is not extensive enough to enable me to digest completely your work, yet I must say that a new field of ornithological research has been opened to me, & I can well appreciate your statement that the value of research along this line in connection with classifying birds can scarcely be overestimated.

I am, indeed, deeply grateful to Dr. Veasey for mentioning my name to you, & to yourself for your generosity in presenting me with a copy of your book. It is a matter of regret to me that I cannot in some way reciprocate.

I shall be much interested in your further investigations along these lines.

Very sincerely,

Frederick Greenwood
