22 July 1921.

Dr. Robert Ridgway,
Olney, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Ridgway:

As you are the author of a number of especially interesting books which would be interesting to Illinois citizens, would you not be willing to present to the Illinois Library Extension Division a copy such as you feel you wish to give us?

The Library Extension Division has charge of the loaning of books throughout the state. We have a collection of more than 20,000 volumes and our circulation last year was over 40,000.

In addition to your book on "Geography of Illinois," do you not have the most authoritative one on birds?

We should appreciate any gift you may care to make us.

Very truly yours,

Anna May Price
Secretary.
