'C. Barnard [sic]. Nativities' and 'Decumbitures, 1678', two vols. thus lettered on the modern binding, but containing engraved horoscope blanks filled up in the handwriting of Francis Bernard. Vol. 1, horoscopes of eminent persons and others, some having biographical notes by Bernard, or with additions by later hands. There are two 19th-cent. indexes. Foll. 40 and 125 have been cut out. Vol. 2, decumbitures of Bernard's patients, with 'Aphorismi de Decubitu vel Visitatione Prima' (pp. 1–4) and his daily receipts, including 'Hospital salary £8.6.8', from June 1678 to May 1679 (7 pp. at end). at end).

at end).

'R. D. Combe' is stamped and written on p. 7, vol. 2. '1959' in some collection or catalogue.

Inserted: letters from Sir N. Moore, who identified the handwriting, and from F. Wm. Cock.

Francis Bernard (or Barnard), whose faith in astrology was well known (cf. no. 4839), had been apothecary to St. Bartholomew's Hospital since 1661, and was awarded £25 in the plague year for his care of the patients in the absence of the physicians. In 1678 (the date of these vols.) he obtained his M.D. and was appointed assistant physician. His brother Charles (1650–1711) became surgeon to the Hospital in 1686. Both were learned men and collected notable libraries. See Moore, no. 6134, ii.

Copy of two handwritten letters inserted in Bernard's "Nativities", 1678, Osler Library, no. 7522, vol. 1.

> 19, Pandolph Road, Maida Hill, W.

Dec. 27, 1915

Dear Osler,

In "my" copy "Horoscope" is stated in the author's handwriting to be Dr. Bernard. There is a MS. list at the beginning of the book in another hand, altho' a contemporary one, in this the same attribution is given. Now both say "Dr." This puts "Mr." Bernard the surgeon out for as far as I know the term Dr. among the educated at that time was limited to graduates and I don't seem to remember any reference to the title as a generic one for the faculty till the middle of the 18th Century.

"Is there no hope? The richman said
The silent Doctor shook his head
And took his leave with signs of sorrow,
Despairing of his fee tomorrow."

Byen here, it is a feetaking physician who is mentioned, not an apothecary or Surgeon. The quotation is from an edition of Gay's Fables but I believe the lines are not his.

Barrett's Hist. Soc. Apoth. 4<sup>to</sup> 1905, page 117. says (Garth) "He is especially hard on Dr. Francis Bernard who had once been an apothecary and whom he designates as Horoscope."

I can let you have spare copies of the Univ. Coll. Mag. with the three papers. They were amalgamated in the American Journal into one with all the illustrations. I have only two or three copies left. I have never been able to find if Liston's Aneurysm is still in existence, nor if it ever existed as a specimen. I wrote to Norwich, Cambridge, Edinboro. Hunted up all the shelves and references at U. C. H. Museum. Talked to old men, but the result was nil and I am almost of opinion that "never was no such a thing". Are you a member of the Athenaeum? If so my turn for election comes on next spring. Verb. sat sup.

All kind greetings.

Yrs sincerely,

F. William Cock.

Dear Osler,

Dr. Francis Bernard had a good deal to do with Apoth: Hall. Elected to a wardenship, he paid a fine, rather than serve, &c. &c. It is quite possible there were two of the same name. But Horoscope according to Garth was a scoundrel and your Bart's physician seems to have been a decent fine gentleman. Neither the list at your beginning nor the name on page 19 of my copy of the Disp' have the Christian name prefixed both are "Dr. Bernard". A note on a flyleaf in one of my copies reads "For the names of persons in the "Dispensary". See Garth's letter to Dr. Charlett in Aubrey 1. 4. I haven't this book, but it may be worth while looking it up. Of course it must be remembered that many reputable men at this time believed in Astrology, but father's description of this Bernard makes him out to have a common shop full of the usual apparatus of the quack astrological fortune teller. All good hopes for the new year.
