CHAP. I.

The Discoveries, Rights, and Possessions of Great-Britain.

HE CABOTS, with other Subjects of the Crown of North-America first district England, did in 1496 and 1497 discover and covered by the English, take possession of, according to the Forms used in those Times, all the Eastern Coast of North-America from Cape Florida to the North Polar Circle, for, and in the Name of, the Crown of England. They had a Grant from the Crown of the Property of all Lands they should discover and settle Westward of Europe; but they made no Settlements in consequence of that Grant. This

Dif-

Discovery of the Continent of North-America was prior to that of any other Europeans; for Columbus did not difcover the Islands in the Gulf of Mexico till 1498, and it was 1 504 before the French discovered any Part of North-America.

Prior Discovery a good Claim.

In those Days Priority of Discovery, even without a continued Occupancy or Possession, was deemed a good Claim. It is true, we did not immediately make any Settlements there, nor did we so much as navigate the Coast for near a Century following, Henry the VIIIth being too much engaged in the Difficulties which attended the Progress of the Reformation, to be at leifure for foreign Undertakings; Edward the VIth being a Minor; Queen Mary being bent upon the Re-establishment of Popery; and Queen Elizabeth being constantly employed in guarding against the Variety of Dangers to which the internal State of her own Kingdoms, the Power of the Crown of Spain, and the general State of Europe, exposed her. But notwithstanding this Inattention to North-America, and the little Regard England at first paid to the Discovery of the Cabots, I have thewn it to have been the earliest Discovery made; nor can it be annulled by any fubsequent Discovery pretended by any other Country, nor by a neglect of the Improvement of it on our own part. However, as several European Treaties have since been made, establishing by Stipulation that Right acquired at first by this Discovery to great Part of North-America, I shall not dwell upon the Effect of the Discovery, as confirming a Right, but proceed to state the several Eu-

Conveyances made to Great-Britain of Part of it by the Natives of the Country; the consequential Grants of the Crown, and the Settlements made by his Majesty's Subjects.

In consequence of the Treaty of Utrecht, Commissaries The Bounds of Hudson's-from the Crowns of Great-Britain and France determin-Bay Company's Tered the Boundaries of the Hudson's-Bay Company's Teritories afcertained by ritories, to be all that Country from the North Pole to a cer-Treaty with France. Treaty with France 30 M. to run S. W. to Lake Mistasin, and from thence continued still S. W. to N. Lat. 49 D. and from thence continued still S. W. indefinitely; which S. W. Line takes in Part of Lake Superior, which is as large as the Caspian Sea. Though the Sieur D'Anville has in his Map of America, published in 1750, under the Direction and Authority of the Government of France, marked the South Boundary of the above Company's Territories due West from the above Promontory, which is so far injurious.

The Limits of New-Britain, or Labradore, are not on The Limits of New-Britain or Labradore, and West Sides ascertained by any Treaty be-tain or Labradore not tween Great-Britain and France; they being with the Re-settled by mainder of North-America, the Boundaries whereof were his Majesty's not settled by the Treaty of Utrecht, referred to Commissa-Right to that ries of the two Crowns, who were to settle all American Disputes, concerning Boundaries and the Dominion of the Indians, in twelve Months after the Ratisfications of that Treaty were exchanged. Commissaries did accordingly meet at Soissons and Cambray, but never settled one Point relative to the Limits of North-America, and the Dominions of the Indians therein, except the Boundary of the Hudson's-Bay Company I have just mentioned *. But if prior Discovery and frequent Visitation of a Country gives Title to it, we have an indubitable one to all that Country called New-Britain or Labradore, extending Southward from the before mentioned Promontory in N. Lat. 56 D. 30 M. to the North Side of the Entrance into the Streights of Belle-Isle, and from thence due West till it meet the Southern Boundary of the Hudson's-Bay Company's Territories. Though the French have been careful to colour the whole of this Country upon their Maps for themselves. Three Years ago a Number of wealthy published in 1970, under the Direction and * Nothing can be more impolitic, when we are engaged in a Confederacy against France, than to leave any Point to be determined after the Conclusion of a Peace: for if we cannot get it conceded while the Confederacy stands and our Force is united, how can we obtain it when we are left alone upon the Diffolution of the Confederacy? The French have fo often experienced the Benefit of this Imprudence on our fide, that in all their Treaties they use every Artifice in their Power to obtain this Advantage, and they seldom miss it. But when we recollect the weak and traiterous Ministry of this Country, who negociated the infamous Peace of Utrecht, we cannot wonder that the Interests of America, &c. should be referred to Commissaries after a Conclusion of a Peace. This Weakness and Treachery in our Managers of the Treaty of Utrecht, when it was in our Power to command our own Terms, has given Being and Support to most of the Evils that have fince happened in America between us and the French. And one would have hoped the ill Success of this Part of the Treaty of Utrecht would have deterred us from the like impolitic Conduct at the Treaty of Aix La Chapelle. But, the Necessity of our Situation then obliged us to submit to the same Mistake once more, and we now see and feel the Consequences of it. For the French refule to fettle any one Point in Dispute with us, unless upon such Terms as are abhorrent to our Honour and Interest; they are constantly committing Depredations on our Fellow-Subjects, and making Encroachments on us in America, and will not recede from any one of their Encroachments, though his Majefly's Claim to most of the Territories they have invaded is indisputably just; and they have at last pushed Affairs to such an Extremity, that an European War with them feems to be inevitable.

wealthy Merchants of the City of London petitioned for an exclusive Grant of this Country, for a Number of Years, on Terms that would have been very beneficial to the Public, as well as themselves. Their Petition was referred to the Right Honourable Lords for Trade and Plantations, who reported in favour of the Project, and proved his Majesty's Title to the Country; but for political Reasons it was afterwards dropped. And fince that there have been feveral bolder Attempts than ever of private Traders, Subjects of his Majesty, to establish Commerce with the Eskimeaux Indians, who refide on and near the Sea Coast of this Country, which has from one End to the other been often explored by his Majesty's Subjects; but there never was any Establishment made in it by any European Nation; for the Natives have an invincible Antipathy to all Foreigners, and destroy all those that happen to be wrecked on their Coast, or attempt to trade with them, whenever it is in their Power.

By the Treaty of Utrecht, which in this respect is con-Newsound-land ceded formed by that of Aix La Chapelle, Newsoundland was the Crown of Great-ceded to Great-Britain, reserving to the French, through Britain by the good Offices of our iniquitous Administration in 1712, of Utrecht. Liberty to visit and to erect Huts and Stages for drying Fish from Cape Bonavista to the Northermost Point of the Island, and from thence down the Western Side to the Point Riche, contrary to the Treaty of Peace and Neutrality for America concluded in November 1686, between England and France, wherein it is stipulated, that the Subjects of each Crown are not to trade, fish, or harbour (except in Cases of Distress to repair, wood and water) in one another's Districts. And there is inferted also a Clause, in the 15th Article of the Treaty of Utrecht with Spain, whereby a Pretence is given to the Spaniards to claim a Right to fish at Newfoundland, in direct Contradiction to the 7th and 8th Articles of the Treaties made with that Crown in 1667 and 1670, whereby it is agreed that Great-Britain should enjoy for ever, with plenary Right of Sovereignty, all those Lands and Places whatfoever, being or fituate in the West-Indies, or in any Part of America, which the Subjects of Great-Britain do at present hold or possess. And that the Subjects and Inhabitants, Merchants of the Kingdoms and Dominions of each Confederate respectively, shall forbear to fail and trade in the Ports and Havens which have Fortifications, Magazines, or Warehouses, and in all other Places whatsoever, possessed by the other Party in the West-Indies, or in any Part of America. The Board of Trade being consulted on the Spaniards claiming a Right to fish at Newfoundland, returned the following Answer to Lord Dartmouth, Secretary of State, dated June 13, 1712. "We have confidered the Ex-" tract of a Memorial from the Marquis de Montelon, re-" lating to a Claim of the Inhabitants of Guypuscoa to fish " on the Coast of Newfoundland; and thereupon take leave to inform your Lordship, that we have discoursed with such " Persons as are able to give Information in that matter; and we find that some Spaniards are come hither with Passes from her Majesty, and others may have fished "there privately; but never any, that we can learn, did "do it as of Right belonging to them. By the Act to "encourage the Trade to Newfoundland, passed in the "Tenth and Eleventh of his late Majesty, when we were " in Amity and Alliance with Spain, it is declared and " enacted, " That no Alien or Stranger whatfoever, not " residing within the Kingdom of England, Dominion of "Wales, or Town of Berwick upon Tweed, shall at any "time hereafter take Bait, or use any fort of Trade, or "Fishing whatever, in Newfoundland, or in any of the " Islands adjacent." Pursuant to which Act Instructions have been every Year given to the Commodores of the "Convoys, to prevent Foreigners coming thither." The Secret Committee of the House of Commons, in 1715, confess in their Report, that they were at a loss to account for the Reasons that prevailed with the Ministry to admit the Infertion of the above Article into the Treaty of Utrecht, for the Management of it was intrusted with an Irish Papist who was sent to Spain for this Purpose, and to negociate what was expected from that Crown relating to the Pretender, and no Papers concerning it were to be found in the public Offices. Upon the Foundation of the above Article in favour of Spain, we find Don UZTARIZ, formerly Privy Counsellor to the King, and Secretary in the Council and Chamber of the Indies in Spain, in his most excellent Theory and Practice of Commerce, &c. advising the King his pence his Master to avail himself of that Right whenever he has Power sufficient to make good his Pretensions.

Acadie, or Nova-Scotia, ceded to Great-Britain by the Treaty of Utrecht.

ACADIE, extending from the River of St. Lawrence to the River Pantagoit or Penobscot, was not only first discovered, but first settled by the English; for in 1602 we had, both by the Accounts of English and French Historians, a Settlement in that Country, which is two Years before any French Family settled in any Part of it, as appears from the same Authority. In 1620 all that Part of Acadie as far as the 48 D. of N. Latitude, was granted by the Crown to the Council of Plymouth or New-England, which Company I shall have further occasion to speak of. In 1621 the Council of New-England refigned to the Crown all Parts of their Grant to the Northward of the River St. Croix, when it was granted with the rest of Acadie to Sir William Alexander, Secretary of State for Scotland, and called Nova-Scotia. In 1625 King Charles the Ist, marrying a Sister of the French King, gave all Acadie or Nova-Scotia to France. In 1627 it was taken from the French by Sir David Kirk. In 1632 it was again ceded to France by the Treaty of St. Germain. In 1654 Cromwell fent and reduced it. In 1662 it was again delivered up to the French King by Charles II. and confirmed to France at the Treaty of Breda in 1667, notwithstanding a Remonstrance against it from the Parliament of England and the People of New-England. In 1690 it was taken by 700 New-England Men, at the Ex-Lis pence of that Country, which was never reimbursed them. In 1697 it was again ceded to France. In 1710 it was reduced again by Forces from Great-Britain and New-England, and confirmed by the Treaties of Utrecht and Aix La Chapelle to the Crown of Great-Britain, "With its an-"tient Boundaries, as also the City of Port-Royal, as ful-"ly as ever France possessed them by Treaty or other "Means."

From this Summary of Facts there cannot be any Doubt of Great-Britain's Right to the whole of the Country called Acadie or Nova-Scotia. And as the Sovereignty and Poffession of it has been so often changed by Treaty and other Means, one would have imagined it impossible any Doubt could have arose about the Extent of it. But it is certain that France has ever fince the Treaty of Aix La Chapelle infifted on its antient Boundaries to have never extended beyond the South-Eastern Peninsula, and have accordingly taken possession of all the Country we claim as Acadie or Nova-Scotia, except the above Peninsula, which is not one third of the Country both Crowns always possessed for Acadie or Nova-Scotia before and fince its precise Bounds were ascertained in consequence of the Treaty of Breda, as appears by both English and French Historians, &c. tho' no Bounds were expressed in the Treaties of St. Germain and Breda. However, a Dispute arising in the Execution of the Treaty of Breda, a Discussion of its Limits ensued, and it was then stipulated by the two Crowns, that St. Lawrence River should be its Northern Boundary, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Streights of Canso its Eastern, Cape Sableshore its South-Eastern, and the River Pantagoit its Western. Which Limits France always possessed as Acadie, and it ever retained down to the Treaties of Utrecht and Aix La Chapelle, when it was confirmed to the Crown of Great-Britain with its antient Boundaries, as fully as ever France possessed it by Treaty or other Means.

Now to proceed regularly and clearly with respect to his Majesty's further Rights in North-America, I must state the Process of Grants, &c.

His Ma- CABOT's Grants being dropped, Sir Walter Raleigh did

jesty's further Right to all obtain of Queen Elizabeth in 1584 a Patent for exploring the Country from the At- and planting Lands in North-America, not actually poflantic to the Pacific Oce-sessed by any Christian Prince: and when he returned to an, lying between 34 D. England the next Year, the whole Country from Cape Floand 45 D.N. rida to St. Lawrence River, which before went under the general Name of Florida, was called Virginia, in Honour of the Virgin Queen, there being yet no distinct Settlements which gave particular Names to the feveral Places along the Coast. Upon Sir Walter's Attainder, his Patent being forfeited, several Adventurers petitioned King James I. for Grants, and a Grant was made in 1606 to two Companies (one of London, the other of Bristol) in one Charter, of all the Country lying from thirty-four to forty-five Degrees of Northern Latitude on the Atlantic Ocean, and the Islands within a hundred Miles of the Sea Coast, and from the faid Coast inland indefinitely, if not actually posfessed by any Christian Prince or People. Neither the French nor any other Christian People, but we, had at that Time any Settlements South of St. Lawrence River, except in Acadie, where the French begun to settle two Years before the Date of this Charter, as appears by De Laet of Antwerp, by Pere Charlevoix, and several other of their, and by several of our own, Historians. Nor had the French, as appears from the same Authority, made any Discoveries or Settlements at this Time higher up the River St. Lawrence than Montreal. Nor had any European Power, but the English, any Settlements in any Part of this Grant at that Time. The Grant extends upon the Atlantic Ocean from the Cape now called Cape Fear to the Mouth of Pantagoit River, which is the Western Boundary of the Country we claim as Acadie or Nova-Scotia. Indeed P. Charlevoix fays, M. Monts entered Kennebeck, or Sagadahoc River, which is within this Grant, 1604; but he also says, he and all the Adventurers with him immediately removed to Port-Royal in Acadie, and in 1606 they all returned to France. Total of sellows the death to out it will sell sellows the sellows the

Both the London and Bristol Companies began, immediately after their Grant, to make Adventures in Trade and Settlements. The London Company pursuing them to the Southward of the Bay called Chesapeak, and the Bristol Company to the Eastward, beginning at Sagadahoc River.

jesty's further In 1020 a Dispute arose between those Companies about Right three the former's Right to fish at Cape Cod, upon which a new to the North-Patent was granted to the latter, and to several other Noblemen and Gentlemen, for all the Country lying from 40 D. to 48 D. North Latitude, which is three Degrees further to the Northward than the former Grant, and takes in the greatest Part of Acadie or Nova-Scotia. The Grant extends due West from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, if not then actually possessed by any Christian Prince or People. And this new Company was called the Council of Plymouth or New-England; which latter Name was given to this Country upon Capt. Smith's presenting a Plan of it to the Court of England on his Return in 1614, and it retains the Name to this Day from twenty Miles East of the City of New-York as far as the River St. Croix, and is now divided into the four Provinces of Massachuset's-Bay, New-Hampshire, Rhode-Island and Connecticut. Capt. Smith furveyed the Coast well, and gave Names to many of the Head Lands, Bays and Rivers, which are mostly continued to this Time.

> The North Line of this Grant crosses the North Side of St. Lawrence River a little above Sagueney, and running due West strikes the North Side of Lake Superiour, to which the South Boundary of the Hudfon's-Bay Company's Territories extend. But as the French were before this settled at Quebeck, Trois Riviers, and several other Places on the North Side of St. Lawrence below Montreal, which Northward of the River St. Lawrence as high as Montreal is invalid. But as they had not made any Settlements prior to this Grant higher than Montreal, they have no Right to any Part of the Country to the Southward of the River St. Lawrence below Montreal, nor to the Southward of the ward of the North Bounds of this Line above Montreal.

This New-England Company made many Grants of Land, one of which, in particular, in 1629, gives to Sir Ferdinando Gorge and Captain Mason all that Tract of Land lying from the Heads of Merrimack River, and Sagadahoc or Kennebeck River to the Lake Iroquois, now called by the French Champlain, and the River which empties itself from the said Lake into St. Lawrence River opposite to St. Peter's-Bay, to be called Laconia. Part of this Grant was afterwards sold to the Agent of the Massachuset's-Bay Province, and confirmed by the Crown in 1639.

The London and New-England Companies, being difappointed in their Hopes of vast Wealth from their Projects, surrendered their Patents to the Crown in 1635. And in the Beginning of the Reign of Charles I. new Grants were procured: but by reason of the ensuing Civil Consusions and Divisions in England the Conditions of these new Grants were not complied with, and People set down at pleasure and at random. Upon the Restoration of Charles II. those Settlers petitioned for peculiar Grants, and obtained them; but it is not pertinent to my present Object to trace Royal and other Grants for Lands to the Northward of 34 D. of Latitude any further. But it is necessary to mention three other Species of his Majesty's Right to a very large Part of the same Country, which he derives from European and Indian Treaties.

While the London and Bristol Companies were engaged in trading and fettling at the two Extremes of their Grant, the Swedes, Fins, and Dutch in 1609 crept into that part of it the heredicary and con-lying from the Lat. of about 38 D. to the Lat. 41 D. N. com-Country of prehending the present Provinces of New-York, New-Fersies, and some part of Pennsylvania. In 1618 the Governor of Virginia had several Bickerings with the Dutch, &c. settled in, and trading to, this Country, as interfering with his Master's Grant. However this served no other purpose than to frighten the Swedes and Fins under the Protection of the Dutch, who foon after had a Governor appointed by the States of Holland, and the Country was called New-Netherlands. The Court of England complained, but the States disowned their having authorised any Settlement in this Country, and faid it was only a private Undertaking of an Amsterdam West-India Merchant. Upon which King James I. commissioned a Governor, and called the Country New-Albion, to which the Dutch submitted. But during the Civil Troubles in England in Charles I. Reign, and in the Administration of the Republican Party, the Dutch again established a Government there, till it was reduced by England in 1664. In 1667 at the Peace concluded at Breda, between England and the United Provinces, it was ftipulated by the third Article of the Treaty that the English were to remain in Possession of that whole Country, in Exchange for the Country of Surinam, which the Dutch had taken from the English. In 1672 the Dutch reduced New-Albion, but the Year following, at the Treaty of Westminster, it was restored to England, with whom it has continued ever since. Neither the Treaty of Breda, nor that of Westminster, specifies the Bounds of New-Netherlands, or New-Albion, but in general Terms cedes to England all the Rights and Possessions of the Dutch in North-America.

The first Year the Dutch begun to settle in this Country, they entered into an Alliance with, and by Treaty acquired the Protection and Sovereignty of, the Five Nations of Indians then living on the South Side of St. Lawrence River, opposite to Montreal; these are known to the English under the Names of Mohawks, Oneydoes, Onondagas, Cayugas, and Senekas; and to the French by the general Name of Iroquois. This Alliance and Subjection continued without a Breach on either Side till 1664, when the English upon the taking of New-Netherlands, which from this time was called New-York, immediately entered into a strict Friendship with those Five Nations, which has held without the least Breach to this Day.

* The Five Nations by this Treaty acknowledged to the Governor of New-York at Albany, "That they had given "their Lands and submitted themselves to the King of " England." And in a few Years after they defired and had the Duke of York's Arms put up at each of their Castles, as Tokens of their being Subjects and under his Protection. The above Treaty was made three Years preceding the first the French ever made with them, for they were constantly at War with the Five Nations, as appears by their own, as well as our, Historians, from 1603, when they first settled at Canada, to 1667, when they entered into a Treaty of Friendship only, which continued till 1683, when the French most perfidiously broke it. The above Right of Sovereignty and Property, conveyed to us, the Five Nations recognized by a Treaty in 1684, and by another at Albany in 1687. And at this last Treaty, when Col. Dungan, Governor of New-York, could not support them openly, having positive Orders from King James II. to procure Peace for the French, they expreffed ^{*} Notwithstanding the Duke of York, Proprietor of this Country from the Time it was taken in 1664 to his Accession to the Throne, ordered the Governors of New-York to give the French Priests all the Encouragement in their Power to settle among the Five Nations; Col. Dungan, who was his Governor when he mounted the Throne, though a Roman Catholic, was so much of an Englishman that he ever persuaded the Indians not to receive them, prevailed on them not to make Peace with the French in 1687, and effectually prevented them from becoming the Subjects of the French King. But his Measures were not agreeable to those his Master had taken with the French Court, at whose Request he was removed from his Government, because he had not procured a Peace with the Indians for the French, and admitted them to settle and gospelize among them, as the King his Master had ordered him.

pressed themselves to the Governor and Commissioners of New-York in these Words, "Brethren, you tell us the "King of England is a very great King, and why should "not you join with us in a very just Cause, when the " French join with our Enemies in an unjust Cause? O Bre-"thren, we see the Reason of this; for the French would " fain kill us all, and when that is done they would carry " all the Beaver Trade to Canada, and the King of Eng-" land would lose the Land likewise; and therefore, O " great Sachem, beyond the great Lake, awake and fuf-" fer not those poor Indians that have given themselves and "their Lands under your Protection, to be destroyed by "the French without a Cause." All which Grants they further confirmed by feveral fubsequent Treaties, and a Deed of Sale of all their hereditary and conquered Country, for a valuable Confideration, in 1701. Which was also renewed 1726; and again, very particularly so, at a Treaty held at Lancaster in the Province of Pennsylvania in 1744. But as Treaties with the Natives of America by European Powers may not be thought sufficient, or be admitted, in support of a Claim to Property and Jurisdiction, in a European national Discussion, unless confirmed by a European Treaty between contending Nations for American Rights, I have not quoted any, nor shall I, (though there are many fubfifting in almost every part of his Majesty's North-American Dominions, as much to the Purpose of Property and Jurisdiction as those of the Five Nations) Nations) but those that relate to the Iroquois, because they are fully and amply confirmed by France to Great-Britain in the Treaties of Utrecht and Aix La Chapelle. They are there acknowledged to be Subjects of, and the Dominion over them is ceded to, the Crown of Great-Britain; and it is stipulated that neither they, nor any other Indians, who were Friends to the English, should be molested by the French, but that the Indian Subjects of both Crowns should enjoy free Liberty of going and coming to the Colonies of either, for the Promotion of Trade as a common Benefit. But as the Treaties of Utrecht and Aix La Chapelle refer the Dominion of each Crown over all the Indians in North-America, except the Iroquois, to be fettled by Commissaries after the Ratifications were exchanged, the Treaties that have from time to time been made by his Majesty's Governments in North-America with the Indians, will be of great Service if ever this Affair should come upon the Tapis. And if our Governors had known the Importance of fuch Treaties, they might have improved the Opportunities they have had with more Clearness and Precision than they have done in some Instances, both as to Dominion and Property.

Those Cessions of the Five Nations confirmed by France to Great-Britain are of infinite more Importance than they appear to be at first sight; for they are further and conclusive Proofs for the utter Exclusion of any French Pretensions to the Five great Lakes, all the Country between the Lakes, all the River and Country of the Ohio, and a vast Extent of Territory besides. But to have a nearer View, and to convey a more adequate Idea of the vast Importance of these Cessions, we must ascertain what is the Extent of the Hereditary and Conquered Country of the Five Nations.

The French Historians tell us, that when they settled at The Hereditary Country Canada in 1603, which is six Years before the Dutch pos-of the Five Nations. settled themselves of New-Netherlands, now called New-York, the Iroquois lived in that Part of the Country extended upon the South Banks of the River St. Lawrence from the Mouth of the Iroquois, or Sorrel, River, as high up St. Lawrence as to be opposite to the West End of Lake Sacrement, and from the West End of the said Lake thro' that and Lake Iroquois or Champlain, and Iroquois River to its Mouth, which is opposite to St. Peter's-Bay. This being the earliest Account any Europeans have of them, we may fairly conclude this to be their hereditary or native Country.

The same Authority acquaints us, that they found the The Conquer'd CounIroquois engaged in a just and necessary War with the Adi-try of the Five rondacs or Algonkins, a powerful Nation of Indians, who then lived where the Utawawas are now situated, and forced the Iroquois to leave their own Country and sly to the Banks of the Lakes Ontario and Erie; which, with the Country lying between those Lakes and Hudson's River, as low as Albany, and the Forks of the Rivers Delaware, Susquebanah and Ohio, they have ever since made their

chief Residence, and do now continue in the Possession of; except those Parts they have fold to the English and made particular Grants of, especially upon Mohawks River, upon Lake Ontario, where the English Fort Ofwego was built in 1727, and those Parts about the Forks of the Rivers Delaware, Sufquehanah and Ohio in the Province of Pennsylvania that they have fold to the Proprietors of that Province. Upon their Removal to this Part of the Country the Satanas, or Shaouonons, who then lived round the Lakes Ontario and Erie, warred against them; but the Iroquois foon drove them out of the Country, and they fled as far to the Westward as the Banks of the Mississippi. By this Breach with the Satanas the Iroquois improved fo much in the Art of War, and fo far recovered their Spirits, which were before depressed by the Algonkins, that now they thought themselves a Match for them: and as Indians never forget an Injury, nor rest till their Revenge is satiated, they immediately after their Victory over the Satanas renewed the War with the Algonkins, in which they had fuch Success as not only to recover their hereditary Dominions, but also to drive the Algolkins from their own Country to that where Quebeck now stands, and never rested till they had destroyed the whole Nation, except a few who put themselves under the Protection of the French at Quebeck; and those that have descended from them that escaped the Fury of the Iroquois are still in the Neighbourhood of Quebeck; but the Algonkins have never been confidered confidered as of any Consequence in either Peace or War, since their Wars with the Iroquois.

Fire Arms and Tools of Iron and Steel having never been feen in this Part of the World till the French introduced them, the Novelty and Usefulness of them, together with their alluring Toys and Tinsels, and the French Demand for the Indians Furs and Skins, brought all the Indians between Quebeck and the Lakes, except the Iroquois, to the French to trade: but as the French had protected the Algonkins and actually affisted them against the Iroquois, they could not be prevailed upon to have any Commerce with the French, who thereupon commenced the Allies of all the Indians that came to Quebeck, and prevailed on them to join in a War against the Iroquois, whom they were now determined to extirpate, never dreaming of much Difficulty to accomplish it, as they had the Advantage of Fire Arms, and a vast Superiority in Numbers of Indians.

The first Action after this Coalition happened upon the Banks of Lake Iroquois, and proved to the Disadvantage of the Iroquois; for the French kept themselves undiscovered till the Moment they began to join battle, and their Fire Arms surprized the Iroquois so much that they were put into Consussion. This Victory and the Fire Arms giving the French Indians new Considence, they became sierce and insolent, despising the Commands of their Captains, and on all Occasions rashly attacked the Enemy, who were obliged to keep themselves upon the desensive, and to make up what they wanted in Force by Stratagem and a skilful Management of the War, in which they succeeded fo well that they destroyed great Numbers of the Enemy, and lost but very few of their own People. One Stratagem they made use of in this critical Conjuncture, was an Acceptance of an Offer made them by the Governor of Canada to send some French Priests among them; but as soon as they got them in their Possession, they made no other Use of them than as Hostages to oblige the French to stand neuter. And being now furnished with Fire Arms from the Dutch, they gave full scope to their Revenge against their Enemy Indians. The first they met with were the Quatogbies, or Hurons, as the French call them, and the Remains of the Algonkins, whom they defeated in a dreadful Battle fought within a few Miles of Quebeck. The French own if the Iroquois had known their Weakness at that Time, they might have eafily destroyed their whole Colony beneggad notities Coalition happened Lynolo

This Defeat in Sight of the French Settlements struck Terror into all their Indian Allies, who at that Time were very numerous, because of the Trade which supplied them with many useful Conveniences. The Nipiceriniens who then lived on the North Banks of St. Lawrence River, sled upon this to the Northward as far as Lake Abitibis. The Remainder of the Quatogbies or Hurans, with the Utawawas and several other Nations, scampered off South-Westward. But soon after they began to be in want of the European Commodities from the French, and in order to fupply themselves they returned to Quebeck; and by this Means the Places of their Retreat were discovered to the Iroquois, whose Revenge not being yet satisfied, they immediately after attacked them in their new Settlements, and by the Year 1650 entirely extirpated or adopted all the Nations of Indians that refided on both Sides the River St. Lawrence above Quebeck, and on both Sides the Lakes Ontario, Erie, and Huron: which they never could have accomplished had they not strictly followed one Maxim formerly in use among the Romans, viz. the encouraging the People of other Nations to incorporate with them. Like them also when they have subdued any People and fatiated their Revenge, by fome cruel Examples, they adopt the rest, who if they behave well enjoy the same Rank and Privileges with their own People, fo that some of their Captives have afterwards become their greatest Sachems and Captains. In 1672 they conquered and incorporated the Illinois Indians residing upon the River Illinois, which rifes near Lake Michigan, and difembogues into the Missispi. And they also then incorporated the Satanas that they formerly drove from the Lakes Ontario and Erie. And the Rivers Illinois and Mississipi make the Western Bounds of their Conquests, and of their Deed of Sale to the Crown of Great-Britain in 1701. They also conquered the New-York or Hudson's-River Indians, the Delaware, Sufquebanah, Ohio, and other Indians in the Provinces Provinces of New-York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia by 1673. The Twightwees, or Miamis, residing on the River Oubache or St. Jerom, they conquered in 1685.

In short the nearest Indians, as they were attacked, fled to those that were further off, where they followed them, and not only entirely subdued the vanquished, but them that received them. They carried their Arms and Conquests as far as New-England and the Utawawas River to the Eastward, to the Hudson's-Bay Company's Territories to the Northward, to the Illinois and Mississipi Rivers Westward, and to Georgia Southward, adopting those whom they did not destroy, and making them their Vasfals and Tributaries. The Tuscaroras, that formerly lived in Carolina, upon their Expulsion from thence by the People of Carolina in 1711, fled to the Iroquois, and were incorporated with, and to this Day refide among, them. And fince that they are generally called the Six Nations. The Cowetas or Creek Indians that reside in Georgia are in the same Friendship with them.

These Conquests of the Five Nations have not proved temporary, or merely nominal, for all the Nations round them have for many Years entirely submitted to them, and pay a yearly Tribute to them in Wampum, or Indian Money; they dare neither make War nor Peace without their Confent, except those who quit their Nations, and get under the immediate Protection and Support of the French. Two old Men commonly go about every Year or two to receive this Tribute; and their Sachems are often seen issuing their Orders with as arbitrary an Authority as a Roman Dictator.

For further Proof of their Right to the Country they have conquered, they have in all their Treaties with his Majesty's Governments respecting it, reserved to themselves a Right to demand a further Consideration for all unsettled Lands, that they, nor their Ancestors, have not made particular Grants of to distinct Governments and received a valuable Confideration for; and they always do demand a Confideration and have it, as our Settlements do extend further into their Country, before they will execute a Deed of Conveyance, infifting that the Country belongs to them in Right of Conquest, having bought it with their Blood, and taken it from their Enemies in fair War. Thus the Proprietors of Pennsylvania in 1736 bought of them all the Land on both Sides the Forks of the Sufquehanah River as far South as the Province extends, and to the Northward to those called the Endless Mountains or Kittochtinny Hills as far as the Province extends that Way. This Purchase includes all that Part of the River and Country of the Obio that lies in this Province, which gives us a farther Right to fuch Part. The Government of Maryland also purchased the Remainder of all their Claims in that Province in 1744. And the Government of Virginia paid them in 1744, two hundred Pounds in Goods at Market Price, and E and two hundred Pounds in Gold, for a Deed of Sale for the Remainder of all the Lands that are, or may be, by the King's Appointment in Virginia; which is another Proof of the rest of the River and Country of the Ohio, that is in this Province, belonging to his Majesty. But they desired a further Consideration when the Settlements increased much further back, which the Commissioners were at last obliged to give them Encouragement to hope for. The Particulars of which Grants, and the Indian Manner of negociating about Lands, with a full Account of their Treaties, may be seen in Colden's judicious History of the Five Nations.

From this Detail of historical Facts, it is plain that the Five Nations have a fair and indubitable Title to their hereditary and conquered Country, and they have on all Occasions availed themselves of the Advantages resulting from it.

The Extent of their Right by Inheritance and Conquest is to the Eastward, on the South Side of St. Lawrence, the Western Bounds of New-England, and on the North Side of that River, the Utawawas River and Lake Abitibis. Its South Western Boundary is from Lake Abitibis to the North East End of Lake Michigan, from thence through that Lake to the River Illinois, and from thence down that River to the Mississippi. Its Western Boundary is from the Confluence of the Rivers Illinois and Mississippi as the latter runs South to Georgia. This is a vast Country, extending about twelve hundred Miles in Length from North to South, and from feven to eight hundred Miles in Breadth, where the Five Nations destroyed many Nations, of whom there are now no Accounts among the English. But the French Geographers, D'Liste, Du Fur, &c. have in their late Maps limited their Rights Northward, to a South West Line they have drawn from Montreal to Lake Toronto, where they also bound them to the Westward, and allow them only the Country between this Line and our Settlements. However, to point out the Mistakes, or rather designed Encroachments, of the Maps of America published in France, of late Years, by Authority, would be almost to copy the whole of them. Therefore it must give every Briton great Pleasure to see our Countryman Dr. Mitchel, F. R. S. detecting their Mistakes and defigned Encroachments, and almost wholly restoring us to our just Rights and Possessions, as far as Paper will admit of it, in his most elaborate and excellent Map of North-America just published; which deserves the warmest Thanks and Countenance from every good Subject in his Majesty's Dominions.

The Five Nations never alienated any Part of their hereditary or conquered Country to any but his Majesty and his Subjects. But in 1672 the French, when at Peace with the Five Nations, persuaded them to allow a House to be built on the North Side of the East Entrance into Lake Ontario, under the Pretence of a Store for Merchan-

dize. Under the same Pretence they built several other Houses the next Year about the Lakes; but they soon converted these trading Houses into such Forts as the Five Nations could not reduce without Cannon and knowing how to use them. However they complained to the Governor of Canada of this Usurpation, and told him, "They could " place no Confidence in the French, for under the Pre-" tence of building Houses that might be a Rendezvous " for Merchants, and that only Beavers and Merchandize " should enter them, they had made them Places of Re-" treat for Soldiers, and for Arms and Ammunition of "War; whereby they had stopped the Growth of the "Tree of Peace that had been planted, and prevented its "Branches from covering their Countries." The Governor of New-York protested also against these Forts as Encroachments upon the King of Great-Britain's Territories. But notwithstanding this, in 1684, the Year a Rupture broke out again with the French and Five Nations, they built another Fort, with four Bastions, at Naigara Falls in the Streight between Lakes Ontario and Erie; which was also protested against by the Governor of New-York as P. Charlevoix, &c. confess. In 1725 they built Crown-Point or St. Frederick's Fort on Lake Iroquois or Champlain. And fince the Peace of Utrecht and that of Aix La Chapelle they have built feveral other Forts, so that now they have twenty Forts, befides Block-Houses or Stockade Trading Houses, and one Fort they lately took from us on the

Obio River, in the Country of the Five Nations which France ceded to the Crown of Great-Britain at the Treaty of Utrecht, and confirmed by that of Aix La Chapelle. This finishes what I have to remark on his Majesty's Rights and Possessions to the Northward of Latitude 34 D; and now for our Rights to the Southward of that Latitude.

We not only first explored the Eastern Coast from Cape HisMajesty's Florida to the North Polar Cirle, but from Sir Walter 20 D. to 34 Raleigh's Grant in 1584, the Coast to the Southward of Chefapeak-Bay has been constantly visited, and most of our first Settlements in North-America were to the Southward of that Bay, and in that Part now called North-Carolina; the Particulars and Success of which may be seen at large in most Collections of Voyagvs to, and Histories of, North-America. From these Settlements the People spread to the Southward of N. Lat. 34 D. and established themselves without any Grant from the Crown, but what had been forseited or resumed, till 1630, when King Charles I. granted all the Country and the Islands on the Sea Coast of the Atlantic Ocean lying between 31 D. and 36 D. N. Lat. and from thence due West to the South Seas, to Sir Robert Heath by the Name of Carolina.

In 1665 King Charles II. granted to several Noblemen and Gentlemen all the Country lying on the Atlantic Ocean between 29 D. and 39 D. 30 M. N. Lat. and from thence due West to the Pacific Ocean, no Christian

Prince

Prince or People intervening, by the Name of Carolina. This Grant comprehends the present Provinces of North and South Carolina and Georgia, and all the Province of Louisiana, fince usurped by the French. In 1698 Col. Welch travelled from Charles-Town, South-Carolina, to the Mississi River just below Old Kappa, where Ferdinand Soto, a Spaniard from Florida, first discovered the Mississipi in 1541. In 1698 also, Sir Daniel Cox intended to revive a dormant Title to the Country granted as above to Sir Robert Heath, but findig the Eastern Coast already planted, he fent two Ships into the Gulf of Mexico, under the Command of Capt. William Bond, to explore the South Coast of Carolina, and to make a Settlement there. One of the Ships entered the Mississipi River, and ascended it above one hundred Miles, taking Possession of the Country in the King's Name, and leaving in feveral Places the Arms of England for a Memorial thereof. And Capt. Bond took several Draughts of the Coast and River as far as he discovered. It was not till the Year following, when Sir Daniel Cox was soliciting a new Patent in England, that M. D'Iberville on the Part of France hit upon the Mouths of the Miffifipi, and built a Fort at one of the Entrances, as would have been done the Year before by the English if one of their Ships had not deserted them. From these Particulars relating to the South Coast we derive a further Right to the Country lying between the 29 and 36 D. 30 M. N. Lat, And on the Western Side of it that is bounded by the Pacific Ocean, we still have a further Right, founded on the Discoveries of Sir Francis Drake in 1578, who explored the whole Sea Coast, took formal Possession for England, and called the Country New-Albion.

To great Part of this Country both the French and Spaniards have not only laid claim, but have availed themfelves of; therefore I shall now consider the Merits of their Claim.

During the Inattention of England to North-America, The Spaniards Right from Cabot's Discovery of it in 1496 to Sir Walter Ra- to Florida. leigh's Patent in 1584, the Spaniards got footing in this Territory on the Eastern Coast, and in 1565 utterly extirpated the French out of it, who had been endeavouring to establish a Colony there from 1555. And the Spaniards were in Possession of a large Part of Carolina under the Name of Florida when the Treaties of 1667 and 1670 were concluded between England and Spain. By those Treaties both Nations were to hold whatever each then possession, still called Florida*. In 1702 and 1703 the

^{*} A-propos, by the same Authority, we have an undoubted Right to the Bays of Campeache and Honduras; for at the Conclusion of those Treaties we had Colonies actually planted by the Government of Jamaica at both those Bays. Upon which his Majesty's Claims to both of them, and his Subjects' Right to cut Logwood, &c. there, is as justly founded as the Spanish Claim is to any part of Florida. But notwithstanding the Spaniards have drove us from both, and are effectually preventing us from recovering our sooting there by fortifying and planting Colonies.

the Spaniards, and Indians of this Country in Alliance with them, were defeated in two memorable Battles, driven to the Southward of St. John's River in South-Carolina, which is to the Southward of the South Boundary of Georgia, by his Majesty's Subjects of Carolina, and would have been utterly extirpated out of Florida, if Governor Moore had not precipitately raised the Siege of Augustine at the Appearance of two Spanish Frigates which could have done him no Injury. And in 1714 the Creek Indians compleated their Extirpation out of Florida, the Town of Augustine only excepted. Therefore in 1738, when the Court of Spain claimed a vast Tract of Country to the Northward of this River to prevent our fettling it, as the Colony of Georgia was forming, it was stipulated between the two Crowns that Great-Britain should not extend her Settlements to the Southward of the South Branch of St. John's River. But the Charter for Georgia granted to the late Trustees, and the Commission and Instructions lately given to the Governor of Georgia, does not extend the South Bounds of this Province beyond the South Branch of the River Altamaha; so all the Country to the Southward of the Altamaha to the South Branch of St. John's River continues Part of South-Carolina Province.

Spanish En- In the late War with Spain the Spaniards erected several croachments and Depre- Forts and Settlements to the Northward of St. John's Ridations since the Peace at ver, which General Oglethorpe demolished. But I have dix La Chapelle. advice from Georgia, that since the Peace of Aix La Chapelle they have again built feveral Forts to the Northward of St. John's River, and last Summer a considerable Number of Families came from the Havanah to settle upon the Appalatian Fields, the finest Country in the World perhaps, which is absolutely to the Northward of the Stipulation in 1738, and confequently within his Majesty's Territories. This Usurpation, with their unwarrantable Expulsion of us from the Bay of Honduras, and the fearching and feizing many of our Ships upon the High Seas pursuing no other Traffic but from one Part of his Majesty's Dominions to another, fince the Peace of Aix La Chapelle, seems to portend the same Evils to us that we now experience from French Encroachments and Depredations, if we are not speedily restored to our just Rights and Possessions, and effectually secured against future Infults and Encroachments of the like fort. But if on the contrary we tamely submit to them, what are we not to expect next? Does not pocketing one Affront or Injury always give an Invitation to another? Has not fatal Experience convinced this Nation of the Truth of this?

P. Charlevoix fays, in 1555 the French turned their The Claim Thoughts to planting of Colonies in the South Part of Garolina, &c. North-America, and in 1562 Admiral Colonie undertook a Settlement in Florida, but did not succeed. In 1562 also, M. Rebeaut went to Florida, and built a Fort at Port-Royal, and called it Charles-Fort, established a Colony there which he afterwards destroyed, and returned to France

France in 1563. In 1563 M. Laudinea went to Florida and built a Fort which he called Carolini, and went on fettling till 1565 when Don Menendez destroyed the whole Establishment, since which the French have not had the least footing on the Eastern Coast of Florida, or more properly speaking the Provinces of North and South Carolina and Georgia, nor do they lay any Claim to any Part of this Coast that I know of. Now let us follow them to the South Coast of Carolina, where they have usurped a vast Territory belonging to the Crown of Great-Britain, and planted a powerful Colony, to which they have given the name of Louisiana.

which he returned. The next French Adventurer was the which he returned. The next French Adventurer was the Sieur De La Salle, who in the Years 1679, 1680, 1682, and 1683, went from Lake Ontario, through the Lakes Erie, Huron, and Michigan, and the River Illinois, to the Mississipi, and returned to Canada. In 1684 he went from Rochelle in Old France, with two hundred Soldiers, in hopes of finding out an Entrance into the Mississipi in the Gulf of Mexico, but he missed it, and fell in with the Bay of St. Bernard, or St. Louis, between 28 D. and 29 D. N. Lat. just to the Southward of the South Line of Carolina Charter granted by Charles II. in 1665.

Here he built a Fort, and in travelling by Land in pursuit of the Mouth of the Missifipi, he was murdered by his own People, who afterwards abandoned the Fort at St. Bernard, and went to Canada, without discovering the Entrance into the Miffifipi. Thus fell that bold, enterprifing, and valuable Gentleman the Sieur De La Salle, who was an Honour to his Country, after which the Missipi was neglected by the French till the latter End of 1698, when M. D'Iberville made an Attempt to discover its Mouth in the Gulf of Mexico, and in 1699 he discovered an Entrance, and built a Fort near the Mouths. In 1701 the next Establishment was made at the Mobile River. In 1702 Isle Dauphin begun to be settled. But all these Settlements took no form till 1708. In 1712 Louis XIV. granted the Sieur Crozat a Patent for all Lands bounded by New-Mexico, and by the Lands of the English of Carolina, all the Settlements, Ports, Havens, Rivers, and principally the Port and Haven of the Isle Dauphin, heretofore called Massacre; the River of St. Louis, heretofore called Missipi, from the Edge of the Sea as far as the Illinois; together with the River of St. Philip, heretofore called the Missourys; and of St. Ferom, heretofore called the Oubache. With all the Countries, Territories, Lakes within Land, and the Rivers which fall directly or indirectly into the above part of St. Louis. In the Preamble of this vague, loofe, and indeterminate Grant, the King fets forth no other Title to it than the Sieur De La Salle's Voyage in 1685, at the first Discovery of the Missipi, acknowledging also that the King did not give Orders for the establishing a Colony till after the Peace of Ryswick in 1697. The King also expresly declares the principal Object of this Grant to be, that a Communication may be made between Canada and Louisiana by help of the Lakes and Rivers, which of all things we ought to prevent the Continuance of, or adieu to the Peace and Prosperity of our Colonies. When this Patent is dated we were at War with both France and Spain, and that we took no Notice of it at the Treaty of Utrecht is not to be wondered at, when we call to mind the Characters and Abilities of the Negociators on our Part of that Treaty. In 1714 they built a Fort, which now mounts fourteen Cannon, at Alibamous in the Heart of our Subjects the Upper Creek Indians, and in the Center of the South Boundary of that part, to the Eastward of the Missifipi, of the Province we now call Georgia, which Spot we actually possessed thirty Years before by trading Houses for the Indians. In 1717 the Capital of Louisiana, called New-Orleans, was founded. And that Year the Patentee, finding his Enterprise very unprofitable, relinquished his Patent to the Regent of France, upon which the famous, or rather infamous Mississi Company, or Bubble, was formed. This failing, to the Ruin of Thousands, the King took it into his own Hands where it has continued ever fince, and is now vastly increased in Inhabitants habitants and Fortifications. This is the Account of the Origin and Progress of the French Usurpation of the Missispi that they have been so obliging as to publish to the World themselves. And certainly if there be any such thing as Law or Justice upon this earthly Ball between Nation and Nation, the French have just as much Right to that Part of Louisiana to the Northward of twenty-nine Degrees of North Latitude, as a Frenchman would have to one of the King's Forests in this Island upon coming from France, walking thro' it, sinding only a Notice stuck up at each End that no Person must enter there without a Ticket from the Ranger, and then returning to the Middle and impudently setting himself down.

As to the Sieur De La Salle's Discovery of St. Bernard, The French Settlements or St. Louis, Bay, to the Southward of the South Bounds in New-Mexico a of Carolina, and the French claiming it in consequence of Usurpation that Discovery, it behoves the Spaniards to attend to that niards, and Circumstance, especially as it is within three hundred Miles the worst of some of the richest Mines of New-Mexico, and perhaps ces to the they will experience, before long, that the French have as Spain. keen an Appetite for Silver as any Spaniard whatever. No Man I believe can treat this as a chimerical Suspicion, when he recollects the constant Encroachments the French have made upon the Spaniards in the Island of Hispaniola or St. Domingo ever fince they got footing there, and upon all their Neighbours, in all Parts of the Globe, at all Times. But if they should not further encroach on the Spaniards in Nego-By

New-Mexico, if they fettle St. Bernard's-Bay, there cannot be any Doubt but they will avail themselves of the greatest Part of the Trade of New-Mexico; for by their Settlements at the Missispi, they are come into a pretty handsome Share of it already, as fully appeared by the Capture of the Golden Lion from the Missispi in the late War, which Ship had an immense Sum of Money on Board that she took in at the Missispi. And this could not come from thence if the French had not exchanged their European Manusactures for it with the New-Mexicans. Therefore it is of the utmost Importance to Spain to deprive them of that part of New-Mexico which they claim; and why they did not oblige France to annihilate this Claim at the Treaty of Utrecht is very easily accounted for, when we recollect Louis XIV. had just put his Grandson on the Throne of Spain.

From the Account I have thus collected of the Discoveries, Rights and Possessions of the Crown of Great-Britain in North-America, it is clear that France cannot have any just Pretensions to any Part thereof from the North Pole to the twenty-ninth Degree of North Latitude on the Atlantic Ocean, and from thence due West to the South-Seas; except to fish and cure Fish at Newfoundland, to the Isles in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and to Canada or New-France. And these they could never have had any Pretensions to if North-America had from the original Discovery of the Cabots been properly attended to by England.

New-

By the above State of his Majesty's Rights, Canada is The Limits of Canada or pared down to very narrow Limits, compared with what New-France which the the French Historians and Map-makers (under the Autho-French availed themrity of Government) delineate it to be. But there is no felves of by the Neglects Foundation for any Pretence to extend this Province to the of England, Northward beyond the South Bounds of the Hudson's-Bay Company's Territories and New-Britain or Labradore; to the Westward beyond Lake Abitibis and the Course of the Utawawas River that disembogues directly opposite to Montreal; and to the Southward beyond the North Side of the River of St. Lawrence. I say this is Canada or New-France, and no Authority can be produced for its Extenfion any way. This is the only Footing the French are entitled to upon the Continent of North-America. Not to repeat that they never would have had even this if the Court of England had but attended to its Interests in North-America. For the Cabots first explored the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and two English Ships went up the River in 1527. Secretary Walfingham being informed of an Opening South of Newfoundland, fitted out Sir Humphry Gilbert, who failed up St. Lawrence River and took Poffeffion for the Crown of England in 1583. And it was 1603 before the French begun to settle any where within the Gulf of St. Lawrence, according to their own Histo-In 1629 Canada was taken from the French by Sir David Kirk, but it was given them by the Treaty of did conquer the Natives; as it is hard to conceive St

St. Germain in 1632 without any Specification of Limits, which gives them all the Right they have to any Part of it. And Queen Anne in 1711, when she purposed the Reduction of it, dispersed a Manifesto in the Country, setting forth, "That Canada belonged to the English by "Priority of Discovery, and what the French possessed "there was by Grants from the English, and consequently held it only as a Fief, therefore where the Possessor turn "Enemy, it reverts." I am not Lawyer enough to determine the Validity of such a Claim, but we may be affured nothing but the longest Sword will ever settle the Limits of this Province.

Thus the Crown of Great-Britain's Rights and Poffessions in North-America stand in opposition to those of France; and by the Law of Nations our Claims are certainly valid with Europeans against Europeans that encroach upon American Claims thus sounded.

But methinks I hear the fober and thinking Part of Man-His Majesty's Colonies ackind fay, "Though our Claims may be valid against cused of -Frauds, Abuses, and " France, how came we by those Rights and Possessions? Cruelties to the Indians," They did not come to us by Inheritance? Prior Discoand the " very and Pre-occupancy gives only a Right to derelict Crown of having no " Lands, which those of North-America were not, being Title to America from " full of Inhabitants, who undoubtedly had as good a them. " Title to their own Country as the Europeans have to " theirs. Nor could our Right arise from Conquest, if

" we did conquer the Natives; as it is hard to conceive

" how a Conquest, where there was no preceding Injury

" or Provocation, could create a Right. Therefore all a " European Power could give, was an exclusive Grant to

" particular Subjects for negociating and purchasing from " the natural Lords and Proprietors, and thereupon a " Power of Jurisdicton. We fear the first Settlers of our

" Provinces never treated the Savages well, but encroached

" upon their Lands by Degrees till they fraudulently or

" forcibly turned them out of all, using the barbarous Me"thods, in some measure, practised by the Spaniards on " the Southern Continent of America, which have made

" them detestable to the whole Christian World."

These and such like Enquiries, Doubts and Fears, I have often met with since I came to Europe. Nay, this very Week a Pamphlet has been published, called the State of the British and French Colonies, &c. which accuses his Majesty's Colonies of committing Frauds, Abuses, Encroachments, Murders, and every Species of Villainy, against the poor Indians of North-America, by which they have been alienated from, and induced to take up Arms with the French against, Us; and all the Evils America labours under have been thus produced. All these Accusations are authorised by some of, what are called, the Histories of New-England and other parts of North-America, wrote by Subjects of his Majesty.

sensible that the Histories or Works of Mather, Oldmixon, Neal, Salmon, &c. who have chiefly copied each other, and of all that have copied after them, relative to North-America, might almost as properly have called their Works Histories of Prester John's, or the Hottentots Country, and their Manners and Conduct, as Histories of North-America, or any other Title they bear. Even Mather himself, said Oldmixon in his British Empire in America, had eightyfeven Falshoods in fifty-fix Pages. In short, there is not one Work yet published to the World in our Language that in any Degree deserves the Title of a History of North-America, but Smith's History of Virginia, and Douglas's Summary, Historical and Political, of the first Planting, progressive Improvements, and present State of the British Settlements in North-America, &c. published a few Years ago at Boston in New-England. And this last is only valuable for being the best Collection of Facts in general, for a future Historian, that was ever made or published. For of all the crude indigested Works that were ever submitted to the Public, I believe this excels them therein. And with respect to Limits between us and the French in general, and of Nova-Scotia in particular, he is very erroneous. But especially as to Histories of the Indians, there is not one published in our Language that deserves the Title, nor any Accounts of them, that I have feen, are worth reading, but that of Colden, which is justly called a History of the Five Nations, and is a masterly Performance.

Performance. Therefore I am very glad the Author of the State of the British and French Colonies, has no other Authority to found his Accusation against the Colonies in general than the exploded Historians, or rather Anti-Historians, of North-America*, and some particular Instances, from other Authorities, of Cruelty and Injustice between private Persons and the Indians, from which we ought not to form an Opinion of any People.

G 2 I thought

* Most, if not all, of our Maps also, preceding that by Dr. Mitchell, are very erroneous and injurious to his Majesty's just Rights; and even the Dostor has not confined Canada, or New-France, and Spanish Florida, to their just Limits.

Such erroneous Books and Maps, upon fuch important Subjects, are of worse Consequence than People generally imagine; for, besides misleading ourselves, the French quote them against us, even in National Discussions, as Authorities. Therefore I am forry to fee the Author of the State of the British and French Colonies, &c. who, I am confident, wrote with a View to inform and ferve his Country, attempting to prove the Independency of the Five Nations of Indians, who in almost every Treaty they ever made with his Majesty's Governments have acknowledged themselves the Subjects of Great-Britain, and have yielded their Dominions to the Sovereignty of this Crown; tho' it is true fome of their Great Men, when they have been exasperated on particular Occasions, have infisted in Debate that they were born free, and would be fo. And this is the only Authority, with a few of them having gone over to the French, that can be produced for their denying their Subjection, fince it took place in 1664, or of their disputing his Majesty's Right to their Territories fince their Deed of Sale for them in 1701, except when the Conditions of their Deed has not been complied with, which fometimes has happened till a Congress could be held by the Provinces with them. This Author has also proposed a Plan for settling the Limits of North-America with the French, whereby he gives the French Two-Thirds (Douglas in his Summary proposes to give them full Seven-Eighths) of the Whole, for the Sake of enjoying the other Third in Peace and Quiet. Now can any Man, upon cool Reflection, imagine, that if the French are suffered to avail themselves of, and settle, Two-Thirds of North-America, we shall enjoy the other Third in Peace? No; if we submit to this, and may judge of the future by what is past, they will soon have the other Third also. And by making such Proposals, does it not look as if we doubted the Validity of our Right to the Whole of our Claim? Good God! why should we give up an Inch of that Territory which is our just Right, when we are not only able to secure it to ourselves, but to make the French hold what properly belongs to them by no other Tenure than that of the Mercy of the Crown of Great-Britain? Therefore may Perdition seize every Proposal that gives them an Acre of his Majesty's just Rights and Possessions.

I thought myself obliged to make this Preface, before I came to wipe off the unworthy Aspersions that have been cast on the first Settlers of North-America in direct Terms, supported by Evidence.

His Majesty's Subjects in of Frauds, and his Mrto North-America acquired from

Our first Settlers, far from Spanish Injustice and Cruelty, North-Ame- fought to gain the Natives by strict Justice in their Dealof Frauds ings with them, as well as by all the Endearments of Abuses and Kindness and Humanity. To lay an early Foundation for Cruelties to Kindness and Humanity. the Natives, a firm and lasting Friendship, they assured the Americans jesty's Title that they did not come among them as Invaders but Purchasers, and therefore called an Assembly of them together proved to be to enquire who had the Right to dispose of their Lands: just and fair and being told it was their Sachems or Princes, they thereupon agreed with them for what Districts they bought. publicly and in open Market. If they did not pay a great Price for their Purchases, yet they paid as much as they were worth. For it must be considered that Lands were of little Use to the Natives, and therefore but of little Value. They lived chiefly on Fish and Fowl and Hunting, because they would not be at the Pains to clear and break up the Ground. And as for their Meadows and Marshes, they were of no Use at all, for want of Neat Cattle to feed them, of which there were none in those Parts of the World. The English had no sooner made some necessary Provision for themselves, than they applied their Cares for the Benefit of the Indians, by endeavouring to bring them from their wild Manner of Life to the civil and polite Customs of Europe. For this Purpose they marked out Land to build Indian Towns, supplied them with all proper Urenfils for Building, prescribed to them Forms of Government, and above all omitted no Pains to bring them acquainted with the Gospel; for whatever the first Adventurers to North-America might be, the first real Settlers were industrious, peaceable, conscientious Persons, dissenting from the Discipline of the established Church, though agreeing with it in Doctrine, who removed into those remote Regions, upon no other View than to enjoy the Liberty of their Consciences without Hazard to themselves, or Offence to others; they were not Criminals, nor were they necessitous; nor had they, with their Brethren, made any Attempt to overthrow the Church and State at Home, and being disappointed therein went to America to secure a Retreat for their Brethren, as the highflying Mr. Salmon vainly imagines, and most falsely and injuriously afferts they did. And what I say of them, their uniform proper Conduct, and meek Principles of Obedience, on all Occasions, fully prove. After they were arrived some time, and it was found necessary, they made Laws to forbid any Person purchasing Lands without the Approbation of the Legislature, to prevent the Natives being over-reached, or ill used in their private Bargains; And those Lands, lying most convenient for them, have in most of our Colonies been made unalienable, and never to be purchased out of their Hands, than which nothing could more demonstrate the Colonies Care and Concern for the Natives. This their Conduct to them is fully and conclusively proved by the Laws of almost every one of our North-American Colonies. Yet nothing could oblige the Indians to Peace and Friendship in some of our Provinces. They were alarmed with strong Jealousies of the growing Power of the English, therefore began a War with a Resolution to extirpate them, before they had too well established themfelves, which forced our People to purfue them through all their Recesses, till they obliged them to enter into a folemn Treaty of Peace. Such however was the perfidious Nature of some of the Ameri an Savages, that they soon renewed their Hostilities, though to their own fatal Cost. And ever fince the Settlement of the French at Canada, many Tribes of Indians have almost constantly, both in Peace and War with the Two Crowns, been animated and affifted by them to war against some one or other of our Colonies, and have given them but few Intervals of Peace, and those very short ones, to this Day.

But notwithstanding all the wise, just, and humane Conduct of our Colonies, in a legislative Character, which has also been extended to all Dealings and Intercourse with the Natives, I am sensible great Frauds and Abuses have been imposed upon the Indians by private People, in Defiance of the severest Laws, and the most punctual Execution of them on Offenders when detected. But Experience daily convinces us that in the wifest and best regulated Societies, Laws framed with the greatest Care, and the nicest Judgment, are eluded and violated; and therefore no wonder if infant Colonies should find the same Disregard to Laws, which is to be feen uncorrected under Governments of the longest Duration and most improved Policy. Consequently there would be just as much Propriety in charging the People of Great-Britain with being Sharpers, Thieves, Robbers, and Murderers, because every Month a Dozen or two of Persons in this Kingdom are convicted of, and punished for, these Crimes, and many more escape; as it is to charge the Colonies with Frauds, Abuses, Encroachments, and Murders upon the poor Indians of America, because a few among them have been fo hardy and diabolical as to perpetrate fuch Villainies, fome of whom have been punished, and some have escaped.

Upon the whole, his Majesty's Claims in North-America are not only valid in opposition to those of France, but he also derives a Right from the native Proprietors of the Soil, his Subjects there having purchased part with their Money, and the rest has been yielded to them by the true Owners, who have put themselves and their Lands under the Superintendency and Protection of the Crown of Great-Britain, that they might be secured against the Encroachments and Depredations of the French. The Right resulting from the Purchases and Cessions of the Natives, as much as it is decried and undervalued by some People,

People, is in fact the most just and equitable one. Therefore I am extremely sorry to see any of his Majesty's Subjects, at this critical Conjuncture especially, endeavouring to prove that we derive no Title from the Natives, and that they are not the Subjects of the Crown of Great-Britain; for it not only gives France a handle against us, but it makes many of his Majesty's sober and thinking Subjects doubt the Justice of our Cause, and when this is the Case they do not assist in the common Cause with that Spirit and Ability they otherwise would do, and which was never wanted to be exerted to the utmost, more than at this present Time.

In 1523 Verazani, a Florentine in the French King's Service, coasted along the East Side of North-America, going ashore in several Places, and taking possession for France, according to the Forms used in those Times, from 37 D. to 50 D. N. Lat. He also sailed up the River St. Lawrence, and then returned to France without making any Settlement. In 1534 Cartier discovered Newfoundland, Baye Chaleur in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, cruized along the Coast of Acadie, and went up the River St. Lawrence as high as Montreal, taking possession for France, but made no Settlement. In 1540 Roberval built a Fort at Cape H Breton,

In 1602 Chauvin failed up the River St. Lawrence as high as Trois Rivieres. In 1603 Monts entered Port-Mutton in Acadie, visited the Isle of St. Croix, sailed as far as Kennebec River in New-England, then went to Port-Royal in Acadie, and returned to France in 1606 with all his People. In 1603 the French first began to settle on the River St. Lawrence, on the North Side near Trois Rivieres, and in 1608 at Quebeck. They went on fettling on the North Side of the River only, between Quebeck and Montreal, till 1629, when Sir David Kirk reduced Quebeck and its Dependences, called Canada or New-France, to the Obedience of the Crown of Great-Britain, which was restored to France by Treaty in 1632, and they have remained in Possession of it ever fince. But certainly they derive no Right by this Cession to any further Extent of Territory than what was taken from them, which was only the District and Settlements between Quebeck and Montreal on the North Side of the River. This is the Way France acquired Canada, the Limits of which I have stated in The Right Page 39.

But yet our iniquitous Ma-the French in nagers of the Treaty of Utrecht had fo far thrown the cass's Com-Power of stipulating the Terms of Peace into the Hands of the French, that when the Queen of Great-Britain condescended to share, what she had a Right to the whole of, Cape-Breton with them, and infifted neither Side should fortify, but the whole remain open for the Conveniency of each Nation's Fishery, the French had so far got the Ascendancy as to exclude her from any part of this Island, and to obtain the pernicious Liberty to fortify it. Mr. Moore, one of the Lords for Trade and Plantations, was fo barefacedly corrupt upon the Discussion of this Point as to fay, to those who urged the Necessity and Utility of excluding the French from this Island, "Must the French then " have nothing?"

> But, thank God, these are all the Rights they have any Foundation for in North-America. And by this Deduction of Facts it is plain, that we are indebted to the constantly Frenchified Royal Stuarts, (among innumerable other of the feverest Curses) for the French Footing on the Continent of North-America, and to our corrupt Frenchified Managers of the Treaty of Utrecht for their Right to the Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and to catch and cure Fish at Newfoundland; which, I say, is all the Rights they have in North-America. But what they have obtained by Encroachments will fully appear in the next Chapter.

CHAP. III.

The Encroachments and Depredations of the French upon his Majesty's Territories in North-America in Times when Peace subsisted in Europe between the Two Crowns, &c. &c.

I SHALL state the French Encroachments and Depredations in each of his Majesty's Provinces of North-America, as the Continent is now divided by the Authority of the Crown, beginning to the Northward; whereby we shall have a clearer Idea of their Situation and Importance, and of the Propriety of the Measures hereaster to be humbly proposed for extirpating the French and their Indians out of his Majesty's Territories.

Since the Peace of Aix La Chapelle they have erected in French Encroachments Nova-Scotia one Fort at Beaubassin in the Cod of the Bay and Depredations in his of Fundy, and on the South Side of the Isthmus of the Majesty's Province of South Eastern Peninsula. And another Fort at Baye Verte Nova-Scotias on the North Side of this Isthmus, which is not more than twelve Miles wide between these two Forts. From hence they have furnished the Cape Sable, or Mickmac, and the Island of St. John's, Indians, who make about three hundred dred fighting Men, with Arms, Ammunition, Provisions and Cloathing. Upon our Attempt to colonize this Province immediately after the late War with France, they spirited up these Indians to war against us, by their ample Supplies; by their giving them a large Bounty for every English Prisoner they brought to them, and a much larger for every English Scalp they could produce; by their promising to protect them in their Forts; and by disguising themselves and occasionally joining the Indians in their Enterprizes against our Settlements. With these three hundred Indians they have constantly harrassed our infant Colony of Nova-Scotia, so that we have made no Settlements but what have been fortified and picketed all round, which has been attended with vast Expence. Indeed it is hard to conceive what Distress this handful of Indians have reduced this Colony to. They cannot clear and break up the Ground, nor plant nor fow without their Pickets, nor go from one Village to another for Relief without imminent Danger, from skulking Indians, of being killed and having their Scalps carried away for the French Bounty, or of being taken and either put to Death in the most cruel Torments that favage Brutality can invent, or of being carried away Captive to the French, who have afterwards infifted on a Price for their Redemption, equal to the Price Black Slaves are fold for in our Colonies. under the specious Pretence of their having paid it to the Indians to fave them from being put to Death. Thus the French have made us pay the very Bounty they gave the Indians for making Captives of our People. The Indians furprized the Village of Dartmouth one Night, and altho' it had a Guard of Soldiers and was picketed in, they burnt the Houses, and put Men, Women and Children to death. And from our first Attempt to settle it since the late War with France, the Indians have been killing or captivating our People whenever Opportunity presented.

The French also, as soon as they had built those two Forts, threatened to destroy all the French Subjects of his Majesty and burn their Settlements without their Forts on the Peninsula, if they did not retreat into the Country within their Forts; therefore they, who have always inclined to the French on account of their Religion, &c. tho' ever indulged in the free Exercise of that and every thing else, burnt their Houses, destroyed their Plantations, and went under the Protection of the French, who affured them of ample Amends for their Losses and Sufferings. Here they are protected and nourished in an Antipathy to his Majesty, his Government, and his People, and prove as good Subjects to the French King as any he has in America. These People became the Subjects of the Crown of Great-Britain when Nova-Scotia was reduced in 1710, upon Condition they did not take up Arms for, nor against, us. But, contrary to their Oath of Allegiance, many of them have been detected in joining the French and Indians both in Peace and War against his Majesty's Subjects.

There may be in this Province about ten thousand of these French Neutrals, as they are called, though some make them amount to fifteen thousand, and others but to seven thousand. Thus the French have a powerful Colony in the Heart of this his Majesty's Province.

The French have also re-built a Fort in this Province fince the Peace of Aix La Chapelle, at the Entrance into the River of St. John's, on the Western Side of the Bay of Fundy opposite to, and distant ten Leagues from, Annapolis-Royal; by which they have the Command of the St. John's River Indians, being about an hundred and fifty fighting Men, whom they occasionally issue upon the People of the North-East Parts of New-England. At the Entrance into this River there is a capacious Road for Ships of any Burthen, and on the North Side of the Road is a Streight, not Pistol Shot over, through which there is no passing but at the Top of the Tide when the Water is upon a Level, for at other times the Fall is fo confiderable, especially at low Water, as to make a Descent of thirty Feet. This Entrance, on which the French Fort stands, is lined on both Sides by a folid Rock, and has more than forty Fathom of Water in its Middle. When you have passed this Streight the River spreads itself half a Mile in Width, and with a gentle Current towards its Outlet admits a delightful Navigation for large Ships, fixty miles into the Country, and much further for smaller Vessels; taking its Source from three parts of St. Lawrence River, one of which is directly opposite to Quebeck. The French have often conveyed Succours and Merchandize from Old France to Quebeck, both in Peace and War, up this River, to avoid the Difficulty and Risque of the Navigation of St. Lawrence River. By this River also they, as Occasion requires, convey Troops and Stores from Quebeck to the Neutral French, the Indians, and their other Forces in Nova-Scotia. And if they are suffered to remain in Possession of this River they may always have a Communication between France and Canada in Winter, which they can have only from May to October by St. Lawrence River, and they will at all times have a much more fafe and easy Conveyance to and from Canada than by Saint Lawrence. But what is more material, they will be furnished with a Harbour, more commodiously situated for annoying the British Colonies, by Men of War and Privateers in Time of War, than that American Dunkirk Louisbourg itself; and at all times a convenient Port near the Ocean for furnishing Naval Stores to Old France, and their Sugar Colonies with Lumber of all forts for the Construction of Dwelling Houses, Sugar Mills, and Cask to contain their Island Produce, which is what they have long aimed at. In short there is not one Advantage we derive from the four Provinces of New-England, that they will not reap from this River when the Country comes to be fully fettled by them. And they are bent upon fecuring a Footing upon or near the Atlantic Ocean, as they have not one Port, or any Territory in their own North-American Colonies near it, but the Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, which yield them nothing but a Security for their Fishery, and a Situation to distress and annoy our Colonies and their Trade and Navigation, in Time of War. The French also deny our Right to navigate or visit any part of Nova-Scotia in the Gut of Canfo and Gulf of St. Lawrence, or to visit and settle Canso, which we settled soon after the Peace of Utrecht as part of Nova-Scotia, and carried on our principal Fishery at, till the late War when they took it from us and destroyed the Settlement; but Sir William Pepperell recovered the Island, and built a Fort upon it, in his way to the Siege of Louisbourg. And every Year fince the Peace of Aix La Chapelle the Governor of Louisbourg, and the Commanders in Chief of the Men of War that have been flationed there, have given public Notice that they will seize and confiscate all English Vessels they find at Canfo, the Gut of Canfo, or in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

By those three Forts they have availed themselves of all the Province of Nova-Scotia, except the South-Eastern Peninsula. And although they do not dispute our Right to this, except Canso and the Harbours in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, they have not suffered us to enjoy it since the Peace of Aix La Chapelle, but by their Encroachments and Depredations have so annoyed and distressed us, that we have not been able to do any more towards settling, even the Peninsula, than to establish sour small Towns, and build four small Forts, which has been accomplished with vast Expence of Blood and Treasure. I think the Parliament of Great-Britain have granted since the late War 450,000 l. for settling and securing Nova-Scotia, and all we have to shew for this immense Sum is the above four Towns or Villages, and sour Forts.

Since the Peace of Utrecht the French have settled seven French Encroachments Villages in the Province of the Massachusets-Bay on the and Depredations in his South Banks of St. Lawrence River between the Isle of Majesty's Province of Orleans and the Mouth of Iroquois, or Sorrel River. Some the Massachusets-Bay. of these Villages are picketed in, but none of them have any Forts, or other Defence.

The French have Missionaries among the Penobscot or Pantagoit Indians, who do not exceed one hundred and sifty fighting Men, and generally reside near the Bay of Penobscot. They have also Missionaries among the Norridgwaog Indians, who are about one hundred and sifty fighting Men, and reside upon Kennebec River about one hundred and twenty Miles from its Mouth. These Indians have, both in Peace and War with the French, been provoked by them to annoy and distress our young Settlements on the Eastern Frontier of this Province, and they have killed, scalped, and made Captives of many of our People, even since the Peace of Aix La Chapelle; but the Government of the Massachusets, by building two Forts last Year on Kennebec River, and posting one hundred Men in each, keep them in great Awe, and they dare not act against us at present. These Indians have often acknowledged themselves Subjects of the Crown of Great-Britain, and the Government of the Province they reside in has taken the greatest Care to accommodate them with every thing they require, and to prevent Frauds and Abuses being imposed upon them by private Persons; for no one is allowed either to trade with them or to purchase Lands, but by the Government's Appointment. For the Management of Trade with them, a Commissary General is appointed by the Legislature, and convenient Store Houses have been many Years built, where they may at all times be accommodated with every thing they require at no more than Five per Cent. advance upon the Original Cost at Boston by wholefale for ready Money, and they are allowed the full Price their Furs and Skins will yield at the Boston Market, which is a vastly more profitable Trade to them than the French can possibly submit to. But notwithstanding all these wise. and just Regulations, and frequent Subsidies, the Address, Ingenuity, and unwearied pains of the French Priests, who live among them, and conform to their manner of Life in every respect, by which they are so disguised as frequently to be taken for Indians, have proved superior to all our Efforts, and they will do nothing without their Advice and Consent, but when awed by Force; therefore the Governor of the Massachusets carried one thousand Soldiers with him last Year to induce them to renew Treaties, and permit the two Forts to be built, and nothing but a superior Force will ever be able to rival French Priesterast and Usefulness, for most of these Priests are good Mechanics, and prove vastly serviceable to the Indians in the common Concerns of Life.

Since the Peace of Aix La Chapelle the French have French Encroachments built a Fort at Cowass or Cohasser on Connecticut River in and Depredations in his the Province of New-Hampshire, which is one hundred and Majesty's Frovince of forty Miles South of St. Lawrence River, and as many Miles New-Hampshire, which is one hundred and Majesty's Frovince of forty Miles South of St. Lawrence River, and as many Miles New-Hampshire, which is one hundred and Majesty's Territories.

There are no friendly nor hostile Indians in this Province, except a few Straglers, but the French have harrassed his Majesty's Subjects in the Frontier Settlements almost every Year since the Peace of Aix La Chapelle with the Incursions of the Indians that reside about Lake Iroquois or Champlain, belonging to the Province of New-York, who do not exceed fixty fighting Men, and who have killed, sealped, and captivated many of our People in this Province.

As to the Province of New-York and the hereditary and French Enconquered Country of the Five Nations, the French have and Depredations in the Possible of all that Part of it that lies to the North-Majesty's ward of St. Lawrence River and the Five great Lakes, and New-York all that Part of it to the Eastward that lies between our Fort of Oswego on the Lake Ontario, and the Mouth of the Iroquois or Sorrel River upon the South Side of the River St. Lawrence, and as far South from the Banks of this River, as River Iroquois and Lake Iroquois, or Champlain, and Sacrement. They usurped all this vast Extent of Territory,

By one Fort built on the North Side of the East Entrance of Lake Ontario in 1672.

By one Fort situated at Missilimakinac near the Lakes Huron, Michigan and Superior in 1673.

By one Fort built on the Streight between Lakes Erie and Huron in 1683.

By one Fort erected at Naigara Fall on the Streight of Lakes Erie and Ontario in 1684, and another Fort on the fame Streight in 1720.

By one Fort on the West Side, and another on the River St. Joseph on the East Side, of Lake Michigan, another on the River Illinois, another near the Source of the Oubache River, another on the West Side of Lake Toronto, and three more Forts and a regular fortified Town, with a Citadel, called St. Frederic or Crown Point, at the Lake and River of Iroquois, or Champlain Lake, and Richlieu, or Sorrel River, all of which Forts, &c. were built between the Peace of Utrecht and the Commencement of the late War. And,

By one Fort built at Sandoski on the South Side of Lake Erie in 1751.

The French have in this Province also, several other Towns and Villages between the Mouth of Iroquois River and Montreal on the South Side of St. Lawrence River; in which, with the seven Villages they have in the Massachusets Province, there are twenty-eight Parish Churches.

And they have befides the Forts already mentioned, many Stockade Forts or Block-houses for Trading Lodges, in this Province.

Two hundred French Indians, accompanied by some Canadeans disguised like Indians, made an Irruption into this Province last Year, surprized the Town of Housack, facked and burnt it, and massacred and led Captive Men, Women and Children, except a very sew that ran away.

The French have since the Peace of Aix La Chapelle seized several of our Traders in the Country of the Five Nations, confiscated their Effects, and made them pay the Price of Slaves for their Redemption.

They have been continually, fince the Peace of Aix La Chapelle, using every Artifice, and frequently Force, to draw off the Indians in this Province as well as in all the rest from the British Interest. Last Year they persuaded one half of the Onondaga Indians, one of the Five Nations, with feveral from the other Nations, to remove from the Place of their usual Residence, to a Place called Osweegachic on the River Cadaraqui, where they have built them a Church and Fort. Many of the Senekas, the most numerous Nation of the Five, appear to be wavering and rather inclined to the French. In short, a great Defection manifests itself among all the Five Nations, for not more than a hundred and fifty of the several Nations attended the Congress held at Albany last Year, though they had notice that all his Majesty's Governments would have Commissioners there with Presents from most Provinces as well as from the King, and on all preceding like Occasions there were never less than fix or seven hundred. The utmost that could be obtained of them at this Meeting, was an Agreement to stand neuter in our Disputes with the French, for they unanimously declared, that so far from acting against the French they should be obliged to make the best Terms they could with them, in order to preserve themselves and their Country from being destroyed by their powerful Arms. The English, they observed, would not fight for themselves, and as for them they could not defend their own Country and that of the English too. But if they saw the English act powerfully, and that their own Country, Wives, and Children, were safe while they went forth to War, they then should be glad to meet the Governor of New-York and the Commissioners again, for it was against their Inclination to treat with the French, but Necessity compelled them. Therefore if some bold Stroke is not foon made to retrieve our lost Reputation and the wonted Confidence and Friendship of this brave and faithful People, who upon all other Occasions have been our best Friends (and have it in their Power to be our worst Enemies) so as to act in our Favour and to influence their Allies and Tributaries, who, together with the Five Nations, make seventeen thousand Men, to do the same, we shall not only lose the Assistance of the whole Indian Interest of North-America, but have it turned against us. For Indians, like more refined and politer Nations, will not join the Weakest, especially when their own Country is in danger from the Strongest in the Field; and it is impossible for their Sachems to restrain their young Men, who delight in War more than any thing else, when all their Neighbours are engaged, and the Sound of War echoes from Hill to Hill all around them.

The French have fince the Peace of Aix La Chapelle French Enbuilt two Forts on Beef River, which issues from the South and Depre-Side of Lake Erie in his Majesty's Province of Pennsylva-Majesty's nia; and last year they forcibly attacked and took a Fort Pennsylvabuilt by his Majesty's express Command at the Confluence of the Rivers Mohongala and Ohio in this Province, which they remained in Possession of when the last Advices came away. They also have seized several of the Traders among the Indians in this Province, and made them pay for their Redemption, and confiscated all their Effects to a very great Value, for one of these Confiscations amounted to upwards of 18,000 l.

In 1750 the French built a Fort in his Majesty's Province French Enof Virginia on the River Oubache or St. Ferom, in the and Depre-Heart of the Country of the Twightwees, or Miamis, Indians, Majesty's Province of in strict Friendship with his Majesty; and last Year they Virginia. fent three hundred French Families to settle about this Fort. They have also one Fort at the Confluence of the Rivers Oubache and Ohio, one at the Junction of the Rivers Missouri and Missispi, one higher up the River Missouri, and one at the Confluence of the Rivers Kaskakins and K

Miffiffipi,

Missispi, all built in Times of Peace since the Treaty of Utrecht, and within this his Majesty's Province.

Last Year they marched a Body of regular Troops, Militia and Indians, into this Province, and attacked and defeated four hundred of his Majesty's Forces at the Great Meadows. They compelled our Commander in Chief of those four hundred Men to enter into Articles of Capitulation and give Hostages, in as formal a Manner as if War had actually been proclaimed between the two Crowns. But the very Night they were signed the French broke them, which we have great Reason to rejoice at, for they were the must infamous a British Subject ever put his Hand to.

The French have for these two or three Years past set their Indians loose upon the Inhabitants of this Province also, and killed, scalped, and made Captives of many of them, seized some of their Effects, and forced those that were settled without the Mountains, together with some of our friendly Indians, to break up their Settlements and retire within the Mountains.

They continued to have, by the last Advices, two thoufand two hundred regular Troops and Militia, and six hundred Indian Warriors at their Forts in this Province and Pennsylvania that are near the Ohio, and threatened a due West indefinitely, the North inland Frontier of South-Carolina is very narrow; but its Southern inland Frontier is in the widest part two hundred and twenty Miles wide, being from the Southern branch of the River Altamaha, which is the Southern Boundary of Georgia, to the 29 D. of N. Lat. and in this South part of South-Carolina the French have one Fort built at the Mouths of the Miffifipi in 1699; another Fort and Settlement at the Bay of Mobile, begun in 1702; the City of New-Orleans on the Missippi, well fortified, and founded in 1717; one more Fort on the River Missifipi; another Fort and Settlement at Pansacola on the Gulf of Mexico; besides many Stockade Forts, or Blockhouses, for Trading-lodges among the innumerable Indians in this Country; and they have feveral other small Towns or Villages, befides those I have mentioned, on and near the Missipi, built in times of Peace fince the Treaty of Utrecht.

In 1730 they utterly extirpated the whole Tribe (except a few that escaped to the Chickasaws) of Indians called Nautchee. These resided about the Forks of the River Yasou, which rises in this Province not very far from, and empties itself into, the Mississippi. The French did this when they were in prosound Peace with these Indians under the Sanction of a formal Treaty; but finding they continued an Intercourse and Trade with the English, they fell upon them in the Night, and massacred Men, Women, and Children, not sparing even those they took alive, but put them to death in the most inhuman and cruel Torments. This Perfidy and Cruelty of the French being communicated to the Chickasaw Indians who reside to the Northward of the Nautchees Country, in the Province of South-Carolina, and they fearing the like Fate, as they were in the strictest Friendship and constantly traded with the English, they declared War against the French, and it has not been in the Power of all their own Force and Policy to prevail on them to make Peace to this Day, nor could they ever prevail on any other Indians to join against them, as they are remarkable for Faith and Bravery, as their War is esteemed just and necessary, and as they are highly revered for their Military Atchievements. These Chickasaws have been as fevere a Scourge to the French Colony of Louisiana, as any of their Indians have been to any of our Colonies; but their long and constant Hostilities against the French have reduced them to four hundred fighting Men only, who continue the War with as much Spirit and Intrepidity as ever.

French Encroachments in his Majesty's Province of Georgia.

The French did 1714 build one Fort in his Majesty's. Province of Georgia at Alibamous at the Confluence of the Rivers Mobile and Lucusachee, in the Heart of our Fellow Subjects the Upper Creek-Indians, under the Pretence of a Trading-lodge; they have also built two more Forts on the Missippi, and several Trading-lodges in this Province, since the Peace of Utrecht. By their Fort at Alibamous they have obtained such Influence among the Upper Greek-Indians amounting to 1200 Men, that they would have broke out against Carolina and Georgia several times, if it had not been for the Interposition of the Lower Creeks, who amount to 1300 Men, and are our fast Friends. And they have also entirely alienated the Chauctas from our Interest, who reside in this Province between the Rivers Mobile and Missippi, and amount to 5000 fighting Men.

From this Deduction of French Encroachments it ap- The French pears that they have drawn a Line, and have a Chain of rounded his Forts and Settlements, all along the Back of our Settle-Colonies ments from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the Mouths of the &c. Missipi in the Gulf of Mexico, whereby they have accomplished their ancient Design of surrounding the British Northern Colonies Settlements, of fortifying themselves on the Back thereof, of taking Possession of the most important Passes of the great Rivers and Lakes, and of drawing off the Indians to their Interest, whom they have more or lessconstantly, both in Peace and War, initiated to iffue from their Forts on our Frontier Settlements, some of which they have destroyed, others they have impeded the Progress of, and in most of our Provinces prevented the projecting or making new Establishments. For there is nothing more terrible than Indian Wars, and wherever they happen the Inhabitants eat their Bread in continual Fear and Trembling; no Man is fure when out of his House of ever reare under terrible Apprehensions of being killed and scalped, or of being seized and carried to the Indian Country, there to end their Days in cruel Torments, or be turned over to the French to be redeemed at the Price of Black Slaves. They are many times obliged to neglect both their Seed Time and Harvest. The Landlord often sees all his Land plundered, his Houses burnt, and the whole Country ruined, while they can't think their Persons safe in their Fortifications. In short, all Trade, Business, and Commerce is at an entire Stand, while Fear, Despair, and Misery appear in the Faces of the poor Inhabitants.

I fay, this Conduct of the French is in Confequence of an ancient Defign or System, and it certainly is so, for all their Governors and Writers of the Northern Colonies have constantly recommended it to the Court of France, who, we are now fatally convinced, have carried it systematically into Execution. And our Colonies have as constantly remonstrated to the Court of Great-Britain these Encroachments and Depredations, and the surther terrible Consequences they had the utmost Reason to expect from them. But it is now too late in a great measure, and therefore to little Purpose, to enquire surther why we neglected to exert the Power God and Nature put into our Hands to prevent these Evils, or to remove them whenever and wherever they appeared. Therefore I shall enter into this Energy of the state of t

His Majesty's ever they appeared. Therefore I shall enter into this Enjuriously charged with quiry in the Course of these Sheets no further than by Neglects, &c pointing out some of the Causes, which if removed the Effects will cease, and to acquit his Majesty's Colonies of the cruel Accusation, from Persons of all Ranks almost in this Country, of having neglected their own Defence, and, by other criminal Conduct, having invited the Calamities they fuffer. This has been very industriously propagated by fome People, who have found it necessary to blame the Colonies, the better to excuse themselves; and by others who have had support in their Clamours from a late Pamphlet called, A Brief State of the Province of Pennsylvania, which I shall say no more of at present than that it is calculated for private Purposes, at the Expence of a very respectable Body of People called Quakers, to whom this Country is more obliged than most People at present know or can imagine, and who will very foon be acquited, with Honour, of the exceptionable Conduct laid to their Charge. Some People would do well in never lofing fight of this, being the most improper Time to inflame the Passions and alienate the Hearts of even the most remote and infignificant of his Majesty's Subjects, and of its being the most proper and necessary Measure at this critical Conjuncture to reconcile all jarring Interests, and to please and oblige every Class of his Majesty's Subjects in every part of his Dominions, that they may act with their Heads, Hearts, Hands, and Purses unanimously for the Recovery of his just Rights, and for permanently securing him in the Possession of them.

It is certain not any one of the Colonies are to blame, as will appear when I come to speak of their Conduct, Temper, and Disposition.

The Affairs very important Crisis.

The Affairs of North-America are become of the last America at a Importance to his Majesty's Northern Colonies in particular, and the British Empire in general, by the French Enterprizes, and the Success of them I have stated; by their having gradually increased their Troops in Canada and Lousiana since the Peace of Aix La Chapelle down to 1753, transporting them in their Ships of War, which returned to France with a bare Complement of Men, leaving the rest in their Colonies, and by this means they have been less observed by the Powers of Europe than if they had been sent in Transport Ships; by sending two thousand five hundred regular Troops to Canada, and three thoufand five hundred to the Mississi in 1753; * and by the vast Armament that has been so long preparing at Brest, and perhaps now failed, confessedly for Canada.

Let any Man reflect on these things, taking into his View at the same time the Conduct of the French in respect to the Neutral Islands in the West-Indies; + in refpect

* This I know to be true from Authority.

⁺ In 1749 the Courts of Great-Britain and France entered into a new Convention respecting these Islands, which the French were very busy in settling contrary to Treaty. And for the Sake of Peace Great-Britain still condescended to let, what she has a sole and just Right to, remain Neuter; that is, neither We nor France should attempt the Settlement of either of them, and that France should immediately break up what Settlements were made there, and her Subjects should immediately evacuate the Islands. Orders were sent accordingly spect to the Bahama Islands, which they have trumped up a Claim to fince the Peace of Aix La Chapelle, and did two Years ago fet up Croffes upon some of them, with Copper Plates, containing the French King's Arms, and a Declaration that they were to preserve the Rights of Louis XIV, which Rights we never heard of before; in respect to our East India Company in Asia; and in respect to the Coast of Africa; and it is impossible for him to doubt the Justice of our Cause, or the Necessity of our going to War, if the French will not immediately relinquish the whole of their Encroachments upon his Majesty's The Satisfier Territories, and make Individuals in particular, and the Honour and Nation in general, ample Satisfaction for the Losses they the Nation have fustained, and the vast Expence we have been at in from the Asia and America, and for the Expence of our present Armaments both by Land and Sea; which amounts to infinitely more than it will require to drive them out of the New-World. Can the Honour and Justice of the Nation put up with less? If we do accept of less, may not the Nation expect, and won't it deserve, to be used by other Nations, as a noted Coward is, bullied and male-treated by every little Fellow?

accordingly to the Governor of Martinico, but he dying before they reached Martinico, his Successor said the Orders were not directed to him, and he would not execute them. Upon this new Orders went, and some of our Men of War saw them executed. Since this they have again seized upon, and are settling them with a high Hand. They have already got four thousand Souls on St. Lucia, near two thousand Souls on Dominico, and near one thousand Souls on St. Vincent, and they have fortisted each of these Settlements, and have lately begun to settle Tobago, another of these Islands.

His Majesty's Declaration Affairs in America.

But notwithstanding the bad Condition of our Affairs upon the pre-we ought not to despair; On the contrary, thank God, we may now chear up, for behold his Majesty gloriously declaring in his late Speech to Parliament, that "I never

- "on, I shall be satisfied."

No Satisfaction can be expected from the French.

It cannot be imagined that the French will give up their Encroachments, by any Man that knows their infinite Importance to them; and all that they have hitherto done, or can be expected they will do, is to make Proposal after Proposal, taking care the last is more favourable than the preceding, knowing you can't accept the most favourable they will make, till they have gained further footing, and time to be prepared for all Events, and then you may feek Redress in the Uncertainties of a War that they are ready For Experience teaches us, that the French always employ Times of Negociation, not in endeavouring to efface the Remembrance of past Outrages, but in concerting the Operations for new ones. However, Great-Britain has been so long a Sufferer by French Perfidy, and so often deluded by the treacherous Negociations of that faithless Nation, that it cannot be supposed that she will any longer listen to their insidious Proposals, than till we are ready at Home and Abroad to give them a decifive Blow; therefore continuing to negociate with them, while we are preparing for War, can do us no Injury, but may be very political. Nor can it be supposed that Great-Britain will suffer herself to be again deceived by entering into any Treaty of Accommodation with that perfidious Power, but what fettles every Point in the Treaty, and does not refer the least Particular to Commissaries, that can possibly be disputed, in Europe, Asia, Africa, and America; and not even this No Accomtill his Majesty is restored to his just Rights and Posses- with the fions, and has accumulated fo much additional Power into we have Sahis own Hands, as can at all times compel them to an ex- and Security act Execution, and punctual Observation, of the Treaty. against to For to come to an Accommodation with them on any and Depreother Terms is only purchasing the Name of Peace, and dations. giving Being and Support to new Encroachments and a new War. But this the haughty and infolent Gallic will never fubmit to till heartily drubbed into it. And certainly there never was a greater Necessity, nor can we expect a more proper Conjuncture for this Nation's entering upon the Work than the present, whether we confider the Nature and Greatness of the Object we are to contend for, or our Ability, compared with theirs, to carry on a War however remote and discontiguous.

The Neces-

This Nation has often entered into War to revenge the fity of going to War with Insults and Injuries affecting its Merchants and Seamen; and often only to defend Foreign Princes, and to Support the Ballance of Power in Europe, in Consequence of Treaties, when neither its Trade, Navigation, Territories, nor Subjects were affected. But the War that it is now just and necessary we should engage in against France, is of such a Nature as to demand all our Resentment, and arouse all our Courage. Our Provinces are invaded, our Towns are burnt, many of our Plantations destroyed or deserted, our ancient and faithful Indian Allies and Subjects cut off from all Communication with us; others of our Fellow Subjects murdered, scalped, led captive and fold at the Price of Black Slaves, and many of the rest in imminent Danger of the like melancholy Catastrophe; our fairest and best Revenues endangered. And all these Insults, Injuries, and Barbarities committed by the very People we have the Name of Peace with. Our Fathers resented every Infringement upon British Liberty, and shall the Blood of British Subjects, shed in an unjust and cruel Manner, cry in vain for Vengeance from us?

The Nature and Greatness of the Object we are to contend for.

Besides these Commands to War, if we have not reafonable and honourable Terms of Accommodation secured to us by the French forthwith, which it is as vain to expect as that they will yield us up Cape-Breton and Canada voluntarily, we have the vast Importance of the Northern-Colonies, upon which also depends the very Being of your Sugar Colonies, that calls for our closest Attention and the most vigorous Efforts of the combined Nerves of the whole Empire. It is from the American Colonies our Royal Navy is supplied in a great measure with Masts of all Sizes and other Naval Stores, as well as our Merchant Ships; it is from them we have our vast Fleets of Merchant Ships, and consequently an increase of Seamen; it is from them our Men of War in the American World are on any Occasion man'd, and our Troops there augmented and recruited; it is from them we have most of our Silver and Gold, either by their Trade with Foreigners in America, or by the Way of Spain, Portugal, and Italy, in Payment for their immense Quantities of Fish, Rice, &c. it is from them we have all our Tobacco, Rice, Rum, and most of our Sugars, Dying and other valuable Woods, Cotton-Wool, Pimento, Ginger, Indico, Whale and Liver Oil and Whale-Bone, Beaver and other Furs, Deer Skins, and innumerable other Articles, and many of them in fuch Abundance as not only to be sufficient for our own Consumption, which otherwife must have been bought of Foreigners at excessive Prices in hard Money as formerly, but a great Excess to export to Foreigners, which increases the Ballance in our Favour with some Countries, and lessens the Ballance against against us in others; it is from them our whole African Trade receives its Support, which Trade requires vast Quantities of the Produce and Manufactures of this Country, and East-India Commodities in return for Gold-Dust, Ivory, Gums, and several Sorts of Dying Woods imported into Great-Britain; but were it not for the Colonies this could not be done, as the Trade could not be supported was it not for the vast affistant Profit of Black Slaves for America; it is from them we shall receive, as has been proved by Experiments, all the Silk, Hemp, Flax, Iron, Pot-Ashes, Wine, Fruit, Olive Oil, Drugs, and in short all the Commodities which we now have from, and for which we are dependent upon Foreigners for in the same Parallels of Latitude in Europe, Barbary, and Persia; it is from them great Part of the Revenue of these Kingdoms is derived; and it is from them great Part of the Wealth we see, that Credit which circulates, and those Payments that are made at the Bank and the Bankers in London results; and they are so linked in with, and dependent upon, the American Revenues and Remittances, that if they are ruined and stopt, the whole System of Public Credit in this Country will receive a fatal Shock. But what will our Landbolders, Manufacturers, Artificers, Merchants, &c. say of the Importance of our Colonies, and the Necessity of going to War to regain and preserve them entire, if it cannot be done by other Means, when they reflect that if they are loft, they will lose one Third of their Property and Business in general; for it is certain, that full one Third of our whole Export of the Produce and Manufactures of this Country is to our Colonies, and in Proportion as this diminishes or increases, their Estates and Business must increase or diminish; for as in the Body Natural a Finger can't ach but the whole feels it, so in the Body Politic the remotest and most infignificant of your Colonies can't decay, but the Nation must suffer with it. Therefore the Mother Country must needs rejoice in the Security and Prosperity of every one of her Colonies, because it is her own Security and Prosperity; and the Colonies are to her as the Feet are to the Natural Body, the Support of the whole Political Frame. And they have enabled us to make the Figure we do at prefent, and have done for upwards of a Century past, in the Commercial World, from whence we have derived Wealth, Power and Glory, and the greatest Blessings given Man to know. Consider then, if you ought not to direct the whole of your Counsels and Arms to support a War, wherein, with the Being of your State, you affert the Dignity of your Reputation, the Safety of your Friends, the best Branches of your Revenue, and the Properties of your Fellow Subjects.

Thus much for the Necessity of going to War, and the Our Ability Nature and Greatness of the Object we are to contend for: War against France effectually.

t of your Naval Force at home to

It is certain that the Excess of the Sinking Fund, arifing from the Reduction of the Interest of the National Debt, amounts to 1,300,000 l per Annum at present, which with the Land Tax raised to four Shillings in the Pound will yield 2,300,000 l. per Annum over and above the ordinary Services of Government. The Proprietors of the National Debt desire no Part of their Capital, but only the Interest; therefore this Sum may be applied to carry on a War, and whatever it falls deficient for the Purpose to 1757, may undoubtedly be borrowed at Three per Cent. per Annum. For such a sacred Regard has been paid to public Faith and private Property, on all Occafions, fince the Revolution, that Public Credit has gradually extended from that glorious Epocha to the present Time, and we were convinced the other Day that it never was so extensive as at present. But in 1757 the Excess of the Sinking Fund will be, from the Reduction of Interest, the Salt Duty which will then be redeemed, and the Land Tax at Four Shillings in the Pound, 3,200,000 l. over and above the ordinary Exigences of Government, which is fufficient to carry on fuch a War as this Country ought, if possible, to carry on, I mean a Naval War in all Parts of the Globe without borrowing a Shilling. But if it should be found necessary, as it always has been, to divert the Power of France in Europe from being wholly bent against this Island, which if it was you would be obliged to keep great Part of your Naval Force at home for your own Defence, and consequently annoy and distress the Enemy the less abroad, by attacking them in Europe on the Continent, and you should want to borrow a Million or two per Annum: Such is the flourishing State of Public Credit, and must continue to be, from a Sense that the extraordinary Expence can be but temporary, and that the Revenue of 2,200,000 l. per Annum to pay off in Times of Peace is perpetual, that you can never want it. So that, however great a Paradox it may appear at first Sight, this Country never was, in point of Finances, so capable to go to War when it did not owe a Shilling, as at this Instant when it owes 72,000,000 l. For when was it that we had a standing Revenue of 2,200,000 l. besides the occasional Million from the Land Tax raised to four Shillings in the Pound, and the ordinary Services of Government? Or when was Public Credit so extensive for new Loans as at this present Time, tho' to all Appearance we are at the Eve of a War with the most formidable Nation in Europe? And has it not often happened in former Times, when the Nation owed little or nothing, and Government was in the greatest Distress for Supplies, that the People could not, or would not, either pay or lend them?

But what a great Aid will this Ability receive if the Oeconomy of our American Colonies is put upon a wife and folid Foundation for the mutual Interest of Great-Britain and her Colonies? Then they will require neither

Troops nor Money from this Country for their own Defence, or to drive the French out of the New World, or any other Assistance, but that of Men of War and the Maintenance of the regular Troops that have been ordered thither from hence, let the War be ever so long or discontiguous, which will be not only preventing a vast future Expence, but the saving of the whole of the present for all America, except the regular Troops and Men of War.

A Fund more than equal to these great and necessary Services in America may be raised in his Majesty's Colonies in such a Manner,

As will free their Trade and Commerce from injudicious and destructive Imposts and Restrictions;

As will put a compleat and final End to all illicit Trade in all our Colonies, whereby Foreign Produce and Manufactures, clandestinely introduced, shall be utterly excluded, and British Produce and Manufactures substituted in lieu of them;

As will highly please and oblige the landed and trading Interests of America in several considerable Branches, and be no more offensive to them in others than any moderate Tax for Self-defence, &c. is to the bravest and most loyal People;

As will be so apportioned as to demand no more of each Colony, or each Person, than a just and equal Share, according to their respective Abilities, compared with the whole;

M

As will steer clear of all the Difficulties, to the Satisfaction of King and People, in appropriating and iffuing public Money complained of by the Crown, which has created the greatest Uneasiness in the Colonies; 10 7 10 11 11

As will not oppress, plague, and harrass them in the Collection, or be mostly funk by the Collectors; And,

As will enable Government to apply it in any Part of America, so that the Strongest shall support the Weakest, and the unexposed the exposed, Colony; and all of them shall act in Concert against the Common Enemy, without any of the Risques and Disadvantages of the Albany Plan of an Union.

Upon these Principles, and with these Views, I shall humbly propose a Plan in my last Chapter, that appears to me to be adequate to these important Objects; and if it is carried into Execution, or some other that will produce the like Effects, we need not fear driving the French out of the New World, for in our Northern Colonies we have upwards of 300,000 effective Men, and the French have not 30,000 in all New-France and Louisana.

Now let us turn the Tables and look into the Finances The State of of France; and here we find from Authority that they have the French Finances. anticipated, or funk, their whole Revenue till 1761, fo that the King has not a fingle Branch but what is mortgaged down to that Year at fix or seven per Cent. Interest, and which even he cannot resume without destroying the whole System of public Credit in his Kingdom. But by M 2

renewing some Taxes he took off soon after the late War. and levying the twentieth Penny upon the Clergy, he will be enabled to borrow, at exorbitant Interest, immense Sums till his other Revenues are redeemed. However this must make his People, with the other peculiar Diffresses accompanying a War with us, very uneafy; and his Power must be greatly enervated to what it would be if his usual Revenues were unincumbered. And as to his North-American Colonies, he can't raise a Shilling in them for their Defence, which with his paying upwards of 1,000,000 %. Sterling per Annum in Subfidies to foreign Princes, gives the best Opportunity we can ever expect, from his Finances, to attack and reduce his dangerous Power.

and French pared.

The British Our Fleet confists of more than double the Number of Fleets com-Ships and Guns that the French Fleet does. But if the French go on upon the Plan for restoring their Navy, that they have purfued ever fince the Peace of Aix La Chapelle, their Fleet will in 1761 confift of a hundred and twenty Ships of the Line, and it does not exceed fixty-four of that Size now in the Water and building. Therefore nothing but a War can prevent this Branch of their Power from becoming too great for our Controul, and whenever this shall be the Case, adieu to all that is dear and valuable in this Country.

Notwithstanding the Dutch are funk lower in the Poli-British and French Allitical World, than ever their Country was in the Watery, pared. we have a new and more powerful Ally of our own creating than ever they were by Land, in the Empress Queen; to her we are to add the Empress of Russia, the King of Poland, who is a Subfidiary Ally of ours, the King Elector of Hanover, the Prince of Hesse, the Elector of Bavaria, who is a Subfidiary Ally of ours also, and the King of Sardinia. In opposition to these, France has the Kings of Sweden, Denmark, and Prussia, to whom she pays annually in Subsidies 725,000 l. Sterling; and the Elector of Cologne, who has also a Subsidy from her, who it is more than possible are all the Allies she can depend upon in case of a War with us; for it is almost impossible to imagine that Spain will interfere as she can have no Interest in the Quarrel, and it is more effential to her to preserve Peace with Great-Britain than all the other Powers of Europe; and if she does not meddle, it is highly probable neither Parma nor Naples will, as those two Courts are greatly supported and influenced by Spain. But to admit Spain does join France and declare against us, her Navy added to that of France will then be no more than equal to that of ours in Ships and Guns, and the Spaniards cannot man their Fleet, nor the French victual theirs, in time of War, fo as to act with full and combined Force at once. Therefore if this should be the Case, we shall have nothing to fear but upon the Continent of Europe, where there can be no other Authority at present than mere Conjecture for what Part our Allies, or those of France, will act, or how far either Side shall make it the Interest of some of the Powers

Powers in alliance to maintain a Neutrality, and others to take the Field. But I believe no Person that knows the Interest and Abilities of the several Allies mentioned, will deny, but that we are now not only more able to divert the Force of France from this Island, than in the late War. but that we shall be capable of acting offensively, and perhaps so effectually, as to give us an Opportunity to employ the whole of our Fleet in annoying and distressing the Enemy at Sea in all Parts, and to be able to retain whatever we recover or conquer in the New-World. But to suppose we and our Allies should be beat and distressed upon the Continent of Europe, it is only giving up some one or other of our Conquests in America, and we may whenever we please, or the general State of Europe requires it, reconcile jarring Interests and purchase Repose. This was experienced in the late War by the Reddition of Cape-Breton. And as this was the case by the single Conquest of Cape-Breton, when France was in Possession of Madrass and the Netherlands, and Holland lay at their Mercy, with an infinitely superior Army in the Field to that of the Allies, flushed with a long Course of uninterrupted Victories, what Terms cannot we command for ourselves and our Allies, when we have all their American Colonies in our Possession; which, with proper Conduct, and the Bleffing of God, that we are the more intitled to expect from the Justice of our Cause, must be the Case in a few Years after War commences?

To these Considerations it may not be mal-a'propos to The Zeal Unaniadd, that his Majesty having ever made the Laws of the mity of his Land the Rule of his Actions, and exercised the Preroga-Subjects, a further Entive of the Crown with that Mildness, Justice, and Pro-couragement for us to go priety as on all Occasions to make it what it was by our to War. excellent Constitution of Government intended to be, a Bleffing to the People; and his having employed for a Number of Years that upright, moderate, impartial, and wife Minister, who was lately too suddenly fnatched to Glory, the Minds of Men have been reconciled, and his Majesty, his Family, and his Government are established in the Hearts and Affections of his Subjects unanimously, which is the strongest and best Basis a Throne can be founded upon. Therefore neither can France, nor any other Kingdam, have the least Encouragement to hope for a Rebellion in this Country, or the least Countenance and Affistance in invading it from amongst ourselves. And a War with France must appear so just and necessary to every Man, and our Ability to carry it on so fuperior to whatever it was at any other time, that it is impossible but the whole People should be unanimous for it, and their whole Thoughts bent upon no other public Enterprize, but revenging the Wrongs and Indignities imposed upon us by France. And this they have given an Earnest of, by the unparallelled Spirit and vigorous Affistance all Ranks, in all Parts, have exhibited on the Prospect of a War.

Upon the Whole, such is the State of our Affairs in every part of his Majesty's Dominions, the State of France, and the general State of Europe, that we never can expect such another favourable Coincidence of such a Variety of Considerations for entering into a War with France, to maintain our Honour and Insluence, our Colonies, our Commerce and Riches, indeed our Lives and Liberties. And it is absurd to suppose we shall ever be stronger for a War, in Proportion to the growing Power of France, than we are now.
