

RARE COLOR PLATE SATIRE

HEATH, WILLIAM. GOOD DINNERS, DRESSED BY W. HEATH, AND SERVED BY THOMAS M'LEAN, AT THE HOTEL OF WIT AND HUMOUR, 26

HAYMARKET. London: Thomas McLean, 1824. Oblong 4to, late 19th century full pigskin armorial binding for Henry Arthur Johnstone whose library was sold en bloc in 1921. Elaborate gilt monogram and three pictorial rondelles and device on front cover; full pigskin pastedowns and endpapers with Johnstone's stamped nautical bookplate dated 1899; spine banded with small gilt ornaments and gilt-lettered. Binding a little scuffed but remarkably nice; internally fresh. Original front wrapper bound in with descriptive list of McLean's publications on verso.

Nine hand colored plates including the elaborate title page. Each plate with six or seven small captioned images of various food and drink with literal representations of mishaps in English life. Punning captions include: "Brown Stout", a woman of color; "Flounders", an overturned horse-drawn carriage; "Tongue", a shrewish woman; and "A Pigeon", man servant signaling moves to gentlemen at card table.

The artist William Heath (1795-1840) was a popular satirist of English life. This album is very scarce, not in Tooley or Abbey, with OCLC locating only the Harvard and Indiana copies. $5000
